SILVER MONEY ISSUE PASSED, GIVEN SENATE

RIGID REDUCTIONS IN COTTON CROP PROVIDED

BY RICHARD L. TURNER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, March 19 (AP)—In spite of administration indifference, the house today passed a silver remonetization-farm relief bill by a majority that ran well over the two-thirds vote required by the procedure under which it was considered.

Voting 257 to 112, it sent to the senate the Dies bill directing that silver be accepted at a premium above the world price in exchange for agricultural commodities in which a surplus exists. The metal thus received would be used as backing for new issues of silver certificates.

Would Enhance Price

The debate was punctured by insistent and repeated demands from Republican regulars for a statement of the administration's position on the measure. But, the nearest thing to a definite answer that they received was a statement by Representative Dies (D-Tex.), that Secretary Morgenthau had not opposed the bill in committee.

However, a little earlier the administration by an adroit move had effectively headed off a vote on another silver measure, the Fiesinger bill directing the treasury to buy a billion and a half ounces of the white metal, in an effort to enhance its price.

Secretary Morgenthau called in reporters to announce that Professor James Harvey Rogers, one of the president's confidential monetary advisers, would leave soon for China to study the effect of an increased world silver price on oriental purchases in the United States.

Sales Limit Fixed

This assurance that the administration has not definitely closed the door to further action to help the economic status of the silver producing states caused Speaker Rainey to confine the vote today to the Dies bill. The silver leaders credited the administration action, too, with decreasing the vote which they otherwise would have commanded.

Under the bill, a board would be established to negotiate sales of agricultural surpluses to foreign buyers, and accept in exchange silver coin or bullion at a price to be fixed by the board, but not to be set higher than 25 per cent above the world price of silver.

A second limitation would fix the extent of the board's sales in one year at a volume at which the excess value of silver over the world price would not exceed $400,000,000. The silver received would be deposited in the treasury, with the latter authorized to issue silver certificates against it.

These would be used to compensate the producers of the commodities sold under the plan.

COTTON CONTROLLED

Washington, March 19 (AP)—Rigid governmental control of the cotton crop through a high tax to be imposed upon all lint in excess of ten million bales was voted today by the house.

The plan, experimental in nature, was designed as one method of preventing farmers who do not cooperate in carrying out the government's price boosting plans from wrecking them by overproduction.

Ex-Public Official, 100 Years Old, Dies At Mount Pleasant

Mt. Pleasant, Mich., March 19. (AP)—Isaac A. Fancher, 100 years old, who had held several state and local public offices, died here today.

He was a member of the house of representatives at Lansing in 1867 and 1873, and was elected to the state senate in 1875. Here he had held office as mayor, city attorney and county prosecutor.

Born in Montgomery county, New York, he had divided most of his life between business and the law. He is survived by his widow, and three children, Mrs. Bessie Tembling, Mt. Pleasant; Preston Fancher of Detroit, and Alger Fancher of New York.

STORM BATTERS INSULL ON SHIP

Greek Tramp Steamer Buffeted About In Mediterranean

(Copyright 1934, By The Associated Press)

Athens, March 19—A raging storm on the Mediterranean endangered the life of Samuel Insull tonight as the world speculated on his ultimate destination.

Huge waves pummeled and tossed his expensively-chartered little tramp steamer which creaked and groaned in the terrific wind, and it was feared the most famous of all present-day fugitives from justice might collapse with another heart attack.

Insull, a poor sailor on a fair day, was believed facing grave danger. On his first flight from Greece last week, the 74-year-old former utilities czar suffered a heart attack in good weather, was seasick and could not eat, requiring medical attention.

The freighter was believed well out to coast, cruising in a zig-zag course, awaiting final instructions from the shore as to the possible places Insull might use as a haven from arrest for American authorities. He is sought for grand larceny and embezzlement in connection with his crumpled utilities empire.

No one here knew anything of his plans and the officials of a score of nations were known to be wondering where he will attempt to land.

Syria, Persia or Abyssinia were given in various quarters as possible destinations.

Others advanced a theory that he might change ships at sea and head in a different direction.

FRANCE BUILDS UP HER ARMIES

Demands of Hitler Spur New Enlistments and Recruiting

BY RICHARD MASSOCK
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

Paris, March 19 (AP)—Apprehensive over the demands of Chancellor Adolf Hitler that Germany be allowed to re-arm, the government today announced a plan to swell the army's ranks by inducing young conscripts to re-enlist in order to avoid the hazards of job hunting at the present time.

The army also invited all unemployed young men in France who have left the ranks in the last five years to enlist for new short terms until labor conditions improve.

The announced purpose of the government is to reinforce the army with short term recruits because the regular conscript classes are beginning to slack off in numbers, due to the low wartime birthrate.

Special recruiting will begin in April, an official communique said. Certain "specialists" will be offered 18-month terms and others may enlist for six months. All enlistment requirements will be lowered.

Officials believe that many young men now serving their compulsory terms in the ranks will take advantage of the opportunity to re-enlist for new short terms, rather than hunt positions in civil life during the present hard times.

More Liquor Stores Opening This Week

Lansing, March 19 (AP)—The state liquor control commission plans to open seven more liquor stores within the next 10 days to increase the total number throughout the state to nearly 60.

Stores are planned this week in Cadillac, Ludington, a second store in Flint, Ionia, and a second store in Grand Rapids. The commission hopes to open new stores in Traverse City, and Mt. Pleasant in ten days.

Figures in New Jersey Tea Cup Poison Case

That he attempted to murder his wife by giving her poison tea on the eve of the birth of their baby was the charge on which Robert C. Miller, 38-year-old contractor of fashionable Spring Lake, N. J., was being questioned. Miller, who proclaimed himself the victim of a "mysterious plot", is shown (center) in the dress uniform of a Legion officer. His wife is pictured at right, and at left, Mrs. Mildred A. Conklin, pretty typist, reported frequently seen with Miller, shown at Freehold, N. J., jail where she was held as a material witness.

AIRMAIL LINES WANT HEARINGS

Army Fliers Take Over Job Again; Only Eight Routes

Washington, March 9 (AP)—Postmaster General Farley told reporters today that virtually all the companies whose mail contracts were cancelled had asked the postoffice department for a hearing and that he probably would reply to them within a week.

Farley, who cancelled the mail contracts after charges they were awarded through collusion and fraud, gave no indication of what he would tell the former operators.

It was known, however, the proposal to give the operators opportunity to present their views had been under consideration for some time.

Such a move—if made by the department—would not be an admission, it was said, that the contract cancellation was hasty but would simply allow the operators to present their side of the case.

The army pilots, meanwhile, were carrying the mail over eight routes with every flier under instruction to proceed with the utmost caution to prevent a repetition of the fatalities that marked he first service effort to do the task taken from the air lines.

Harlee Branch, second assistant postmaster general, said the department "understood" that army planes would be carrying mail on the Chicago to St. Paul run "in a day or two."

Unless the service fails in its second attempt to carry the mail, officials indicated they did not expect private lines to be given temporary contracts pending new legislation on the subject.

Shooting Throws Havana In Panic

Havana, March 19 (AP)—Shots fired by a civilian at his sweetheart, standing near the capitol, wounded the woman and threw Havana into a panic tonight as soldiers guarding the capitol mistook the shots for an attack on the building and opened fire.

In a few minutes, shooting had spread to many parts of the city. Firing among police, soldiers and snipers lasted 15 minutes.

A stray bullet struck a bystander and he was believed dying. The wounded woman's assailant escaped injury. He was arrested by police.

Sault Ste. The bullet penetrated the victim's stomach and he died from hemorrhages. The Cowell boy received the gun as a birthday present February 28, and had taken it out Monday on a crow hunt.

UNIFIED CARRIER CONTROL URGED

Highway and Waterway Traffic Regulation Under Commission

Chicago, March 19 (AP)—"Unified control" of all transportation, bringing motor and waterway traffic under the interstate commerce commission, was recommended in the report of the transportation conference of 1934, made public today.

The conference was set up last July to "consider a national transportation policy." Among its membership were Association of Railway Executives, the National Association of Manufacturers, the Institute of American Meat Packers, the Security Owners Association, and other trade groups.

In urging regulation of the highway and waterway carriers the report said "equality of regulation should not mean identical regulation, nor the same level of rates for all."

As for the railroads, the conference opposed public ownership, declared it "not the only feasible solution," and said that private capital could carry the railroads through their financial woes.

The conference concluded that nothing now "compels recourse to government ownership." It estimated, however, the lines would need $267,000,000 from the government between 1934 and 1940. Some Class One lines must be added to meet their obligations in 1934, it said, and "possibly a few" until 1940.

Coordination of the lines should "continue to be voluntary" the report said. It opposed any compulsory recasting of the railways into a few great systems.

he conference proposed that railroads be allowed to buy waterway lines competing with the Panama canal, and to buy interstate motor carriers.

The report drew a picture of American railroads with the following major elements:

The liens were at least 600 million dollars behind in their maintenance work; they will need five billions to improve themselves from 1934 to 1940. Private capital is "reluctant" to aid them. Their situation "does not warrant" increasing employment or the security of employes.

Pontiac, March 19 (AP)—Remembering a holdup in 1932 in which he resisted two bandits and then was shot three times, Charles B. Wixom remained quiet Monday morning when two robbers entered his drug store here. They tied his feet and escaped with $50 in cash and a quantity of cigarettes and cigars.

CLARDY TO GET OUSTER APPEAL

Old Guard Democrat Is Named on Michigan Utilities Board

Lansing, March 19 (AP)—Frank J. Sawyer, old guard Democrat from Grand Blanc, was named a members of the Michigan public utilities commission today by Governor Comstock.

At the same time that the supreme court granted permission to Kit F. Clardy, former chairman of the commission, to appeal from recent proceedings before the governor ousting him from office. The appeal calls for a review of the entire proceedings under which Clardy was removed. In his petition for dismissal to appeal, Clardy also asked that James B. Balch, of Kalamazoo, new chairman, be denied the right to hold office. Clardy contended the removal proceedings against him were unconstitutional and illegal.

The governor said that Commissioners Harold C. Waples and Robert H. Dunn, who have submitted their resignations, will continue to serve indefinitely.

Sawyer's appointment clears a serious Democratic patronage problem. He had been a candidate for United States marshal for the eastern Michigan district along with John J. Bare of Detroit. Indications now are that Bare will receive the appointment.

Sawyer has long been active in Democratic ranks. He formerly was a candidate for lieutenant governor.

NEW POWERS PROPOSED TO CRUSH CRIME

MORE UNDER ARMS THAN IN ARMY AND NAVY

BY SAM BLEDSOE
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, March 19 (AP)—The government through Attorney General Cummings today asked new legislative weapons to crush an organized underworld "that has more people under arms than in the army and navy of the United States."

Illustrating his testimony by reference to the Dillingers, Touhys and Capones, Cummings requested the senate judiciary committee to approve six measures which would give federal authorities power as formidable in its field as the machine guns and sawed off shot guns of the criminals.

Evade Detection

The attorney general said the government did not wish to usurp state power and that it was not the duty of the "government generally to preserve peace and order in the various communities of our nation."

"I am convinced, however," he said, "that we need expansion of the federal penal statutes to include control over the unlawful activities of those who deliberately take advantage of the protection presently afforded them by state lines in perpetrating their crimes.

"Those who use the fast means of travel, the swift methods of communication to escape from the scene of their crimes—those classes of criminals who seek to earn their living by threats and violence, moving about from one state to another to avoid detection, require the attention, in my opinion, of the federal authorities. It is to curb their depradations that these bills are directed. To them crime has become a business—a cold, hard, calculating enterprise."

Capone Gang Worst

Indications were the measures asked by the attorney general would be acted on in both houses at this session. Apparently there is little opposition to their principles.

The committee listened attentively while Cummings told of some of the gangs with which the government is at war. He said the Touhy band in the midwest was "notorious for torture" but that the Capone organization, headed by Murray Humphrey since Al Capone went to Atlanta, was of a "much higher type."

"It is not so brutal as the Touhys," he said, "and not so likely to take off a man's ear or

Hamtramck Men Get Prison Terms

Detroit, March 19 (AP)—Rudolph G. Tenerowicz, former mayor of Hamtramck, Mich., and his three co-defendants, Joseph Rupinski, Jacob Kaplan, and Harry Wurmuskerken, former police chief, were in the Wayne county jail here tonight, waiting transfers to state prisons to serve terms ranging from three and one half to five years on charges that they conspired to protect vice in Hamtramck.

While the four men were waiting for Sheriff Thomas C. Wilcox to transfer them to prisons, counsel for the defense were planning appeals to the United States supreme court. The Michigan supreme court recently affirmed their convictions and refused a petition for rehearing.

Confession Made By Americans In Paris Spy Inquiry

Paris, March 19 (AP)—What court officials described as "a full confession of whatever part they played" in a widespread spy ring was made during a seven-hour grilling tonight of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon Switz, young Americans.

Their revelations brought the announcement by Judge Benon, the investigating magistrate, that the arrests of 15 other persons in connection with the alleged plot would follow shortly.

Switz and his wife, natives of East Orange, N. J., and New York, faced each other at a secret hearing when M. Benon confronted them with a mass of detailed testimony French police have been gathering for months.

The Americans emerged from the extensive grilling fagged but smiling shortly before midnight and were taken back to the cold and damp cells they have inhabited since late in December.

LAWYER SLAYS WIFE WITH AXE

Cleveland Man Cuts His Own Throat, Nervous Trouble Blamed

Cleveland, March 19 (AP)—As a climax to a nervous breakdown, one of Cleveland's most prominent attorneys, Robert Newcomb, 61, hacked his wife to death with an axe while she slept early today, and then committed suicide by slashing his throat with a razor.

Returning a verdict of murder aand suicide, Corner A. J. Pearse asserted two other persons in the Newcomb home, who were asleep at the time, were lucky to have escaped. They were Millard, 35, one of the couple's two sons, and Mrs. Mabel Warner, aged mother of Mrs. Newcomb.

Mrs. Myra Johnson, the maid, discovered Newcomb's body when she went to the furnace room. Her screams summoned Millard, who was with her when the death of Mrs. Newcomb also was discovered.

Millard, who has a brother, Robert B. Newcomb, Jr., in New York, said his parents retired about 11 p. m., last night apparently in harmony.

The lawyer had been treated several weeks for his nervous breakdown, the second he had suffered in 15 years. His brother, Adrian G. Newcomb, said he had never given any indication of violence.

BYRD AIRPLANE LOST IN SNOW

High Winds Halt Rescue Party at Little America Site

Little America, Antarctica, March 19 (AP)—(Via Mackay Radio)—A monoplane of the second Byrd antarctic expedition was forced down by heavy fog on a return flight yesterday from a depot 100 miles away and remained today in the grip of a storm that precluded rescue attempts.

Its position was unknown, but was believed to be between eight and fifteen miles from Little America. Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd was ready to fly to its relief but high winds and drifting snow made a start impossible. Two men were marooned by the forced landing, Pilot William C. Bowlin and Wireless Operator Clay Bailey, both of the United States Navy.

"When the plane left Little America," said Admiral Byrd, "it carried full emergency equipment, including a tent, cooking stove, sleeping bags, and thirty days' rations per man.

"Both men were amply equipped with fur clothing, so I see no reason for concern. We shall start looking for them as soon as the weather gives us a chance."

No messages were received from the stranded fliers today. The last contact with them was at 8 p. m. yesterday when Bowlin reported he had buried the plane in a hole dug in the snow to save it from being blown away by a high wind.

His gasoline supply was nearly exhausted, and he was unable to give his position as he had flown blind about ten minutes before landing.

Guitar Smashed At Talbot Dance

Menominee, March 19 (AP)—Officers of the sheriff's department were called to a dance hall at Talbot Sunday morning when one of the musicians, Nels Waldo, 25, allegedly smashed his guitar on the head of one of the dancers. He is being held on a drunk and disorderly charge.

SOME 250,000 WORKERS MAY JOIN WALKOUT

ARMISTICE SOUGHT THROUGH HELP OF NIRA

(By The Associated Press)

Strenuous efforts were made Monday to keep the factory wheels turning as the hour approached for strikes that would paralyze great industries.

The leading figures in the automotive industry met at New York, face to face with the proclamation of a walkout to begin Wednesday. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, tendered his offices toward a solution of the critical differences.

Ford Absent

Organized labor stated its grievance, "the attempt of the automobile manufacturers to impose company unions upon their workers."

And the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce—Henry Ford alone absent—put it, "manufacturers have not coerced their employes . . . there is one fundamental issue; whether the automobile industry is to be run by the American Federation of Labor."

The conference adjourned after a ten hour session at which General Johnson appeared. The nature of the NRA head's conversation was not officially disclosed but it was understood he suggested a three point truce: 1. Cessation of strike preparations: 2. A board of review, presumably including NRA mediators, to hear labor grievances; 3. A possible vote of employes to determine whether they desired the voice of the federation or of the company unions.

Handicap to Recovery

If the federation strike proved fully effective, some 250,000 workers would be thrown out of work—the fear of which as a retard to its recovery program brought the administration forth with its offer of mediation in the dispute between federation and company unions.

At Cleveland the labor situation had become so serious that an American Federation of Labor organizer described it as "like a charge of dynamite with the fuse already sputtering."

Employes of the Fisher Body corporation at Cleveland voted 3,065 to 65 in favor of striking, but the walkout, its goal merely recognition of the union, was deferred pending federal labor board conferences.

Four hundred employes at the Cleveland Sherwin-Williams plant went on strike. Employes of the Addressograph-Multigraph company and the Cleveland Twist Drill company discussed a walkout.

Rail Dispute Deadlocked

At Washington the railway executives reiterated their formal demand that brotherhood workers take a basic reduction of 15 per cent July 1, and the 21 union chiefs went back to their conference room to draft another note of reply.

Public hearings will start at Chicago Tuesday to seek a set-

New Relief Granted Michigan Taxpayers

BY GILBERT T. SHILSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Lansing, Mich., March 19 (AP)—Governor Comstock today signed a measure granting additional tax relief to thousands of Michigan property owners. In effect the new law staves off the delinquency of all real estate taxes for 1932 or prior years until 1935.

The act, which becomes effective immediately, was an amendment to a statute enacted last year providing for the payment of back taxes in installments. Prior to amendment the law allowed the payment of delinquencies for 1931 and previous years in ten annual installments, starting in 1935. The new measure puts 1932 taxes in the same category. Another bill awaits gubernatorial action reducing penalties and interest charges on delinquent 1933 taxes to three per cent, if paid by next November 1.

A backwash of executive criticism followed the special session of the legislature which adjourned last Saturday morning. Referring to a deadlock in which Democratic senators combined with Republicans to approve a bill reducing small loan interest rates from 3 1-2 per cent a month to one per cent, Governor Comstock declared the maneuver reflected "dishonor on some Democratic senators." Most of the Democrats in both the house and senate had pledged themselves to pass a measure cutting the rate to 2 1-2 per cent—a figure the governor deemed reasonable. The house agreed to that figure but the senate dropped the rate to one per cent. The result was that neither house would recede and the bill

NO ALLOCATION OF TAXES MADE

Telegram from Lansing Asks County Comish to Adjourn

Just as the Delta county tax commission was about to begin its deliberations for the allocation of tax rates, a telegram was received yesterday afternoon from Lansing advising that adjournment should be taken.

The telegram read: "County tax commission should adjourn until further notice. State Tax Commission, Chester M. Martin, chairman."

What was the reason for the action could not be determined locally yesterday. There has been some complaint concerning the law, stipulates that the tax commissions meet at this early date. Public officials have expressed the hope that the date would be set several months later so as to facilitate the task of drawing up budgets.

The members of the Delta county tax commission are: Ralph R. Olsen, Claude E. Hawkins, C. U. Woolpert, W. J. Schmit and H. J. Skogquist.

died.

"I must be gullible enough to still think a person's word is good, particularly when it is signed to a pledge," the governor said.

The executive declared he is endeavoring to secure a copy of the signed pledge to "find out just who bolted."

The governor indicated he probably will sign the $30,000,000 public works bond bill passed by the legislature unless conflicting provisions are found and if arrangements can be made for a special statewide election "soon enough to do any good."

The governor asked the attorney general to study the measure and determine whether a special election may be held April 2—the date on which many local elections will be held. The vote on the measure will be limited to taxpayers. Whether a special election to choose a congressman in the third district will be ordered will depend to some extent upon what decision is made relative to a referendum on the bond issue. The governor expressed a fear confusion would arise if a special election in the third district in which all the voters were entitled to ballot and one limited to taxpayers were held coincidentally.

The bond bill requires the approval of the taxpayers before it becomes effective.

At Indianapolis 70 to 100 employes of the Kibler Trucking company struck, demanding union recognition. State police heard some reports of violence.

Closed Shop Refused

The United Elastic corporation at Easthampton, Mass., refused a demand for a closed shop and 600 of its 800 employes walked out.

A number of strikes were "in the air" in Ohio; 1,100 rubber workers at Akron voted to defer a walkout and let the regional labor board try settling their dispute over union recognition; 800 Diamond Match company employes at Barberton plan to strike Thursday for a five cents an hour wage increase; preliminary votes have favored strikes at the Babcock and Wilcox and the Columbia Chemical company plants at Barberton.

Frank J. Dillon, representative of the American Federation of Labor at Flint, announced tonight that 1,000 workers in the A. C. Spark Plug factories there had voted to strike Wednesday. Strike votes are to be taken at Flint Tuesday in meetings of the Buick Motor company and the Du Pont de Nemours workers.

Another 2,500 employes of the Flint (Mich.) plant of the Chevrolet Motor company last night voted to join the strike.

Walkouts on CWA projects spread through New York state involving workers in Chemung, Seneca, Ontario, Cayuga, Genesee, Jefferson and Broome counties but a speedy settlement was made in Chemung county.

In the far west, Pacific coast longshoremen voted to strike for union recognition, shorter hours and higher wages and in Brish Columbia 400 men from three more logging camps joined a walkout of loggers to swell the total on strike to about 2,200 men.

RAIL TROUBLE WATCHED

Washington, March 19. (AP)—Closely watching developments, President Rosevelt late today called in his attorney general for a discussion of the threat of strikes in the automobile industry and the deadlock over wages between railroads and their employes.

The White House conference took place a few hours after railroad managers notified labor chiefs here that unless they agreed to a continuance of the present 10 per cent wage reduction until April 30, 1935, a cut of 15 per cent in basic rates would be imposed July 1.

Meanwhile, in New York a meeting of the executive committee and directors of the national automobile chamber of commerce was in progress in a last minute effort to stave off a strike in the motor manufacturing plants. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, was in that city within easy reach for consultation.

Attorney General Cummings said after the meeting with Mr. Roosevelt that his talk was in relation to "clearing up some legal points" and would not indicate whether any immediate presidential action was in prospect.

However, it was apparent that the chief executive was drafting a course of action should it be necessary.

The railroads' stand in the wage controversy was outlined in answer to a demand made Saturday by the railway labor executives association that wages be restored to the 1931 level. With that, the conference of labor chiefs and railroad representatives was adjourned subject to call when the labor men decide on a reply. This may come tomorrow.

Last month in a letter to both sides, the president urged that the wage discussion not be reopened at this time and that the existing 10 per cent reduction first agreed upon in 1932 be continued for another six months.

GREEN REPLIES

Washington, March 19 (AP)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, tonight denied that his organization sought to impose itself on automobile employes and asserted:

"If a strike of the automobile workers takes place it will be because the automobile workers themselves decide to strike and those responsible for that strike will be the automobile manufacturers."

In a statement replying to one issued by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce in Detroit, Green branded as false the assertion that there was only one "fundamental issue, namely, whether the automobile industry is to be run by the American Federation of Labor."

"The real issue, which cannot be confused in any series of misstatements," Green said, "is, shall the automobile workers be permitted to organize without coercion and intimidation from the automobile manufacturers and shall they be permitted to be represented in collective bargaining with the management by representatives of their own choosing, is provided for in Section 7A of the national recovery act.

"The automobile manufacturers declare the workers shall not be permitted to exercise this right and the workers demand that they be permitted to do so and that this right be recognized and conceded.

"The real situation existing in the automobile industry is apparent. Prior to the enactment of the national recovery act there was little, if any, organization among automobile workers in spite of the desire of the workers to become organized. Following the enactment of the national recovery act the automobile manufacturers decided to organize company unions. They prepared these company unions, drafted the by-laws, developed the plan and presented it to the workers, ready-made. From that moment, resentment was created in the hearts and minds of the automobile workers against this paternalistic attitude of their employers. The resentment grew and increased until the workers themselves organized into independent unions. They did this freely, of their own free will, without being influenced in any way whatever by the American Federation of Labor. Instead of the American Federation of Labor coercing them or imposing itself upon them they appealed for admission into the American Federation of Labor. Apparently it was the purpose of the automobile manufacturers to establish company unions. Instead their acts resulted in the organization of independent unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

"Let the automobile workers decide for themselves whether they want a company union, an independent union, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, or no union, at all.

"Under the national recovery act, the workers have a legal right to make such a decision. I challenge the automobile manufacturers to meet this issue and let the workers decide for themselves. The American Federation of Labor will abide by the decision."

Port Huron Drops Dillinger Search; Officer Is Buried

Port Huron, March 19. (AP)—A small army of officers who have searched for John Dillinger since the slaying here Friday of Herbert Youngblood, his negro jailbreak companion, returned to their normal duties tonight, convinced that if Dillinger did visit this area last week he has successfully slipped through their blockade.

Police said they had been unable to corroborate the dying assertion of Youngblood that Dillinger was hiding here, and officers are inclined to believe the notorious bank robber would not travel with Youngblood, a notorious braggart and narcotic addict.

In the pistol battle in which Youngblood was fatally wounded, Undersheriff Charles A. Cavanaugh also suffered wounds which caused death and Deputy Sheriff Howard Lohr was seriously wounded. Funeral services for Cavanaugh were held today.

Sheriff William Van Antwerp said "there is little chance that Dillinger is here now or ever was here," and a majority of officers were of the same opinion. Eugene Fields, negro youth who was injured in the exchange of bullets and who said he fired at Youngblood with the negro's own gun, was released after having been questioned when an unregistered gun was found in his home.

Civil Works Ended In Rural Districts

Washington, March 19 (AP)—The civil works administration has virtually ceased operations in rural areas.

Harry L. Hopkins, administrator, made this known today in announcing policies of the relief administration in providing work for men and women in communities of 5,000 or more.

He said that on March 31 when civil works projects are scheduled to end in urban areas there will be between 1,500,000 and 2,000,000 persons transferred to work programs under state emergency relief administrations.

In the rural areas relief will take the form largely, he said, of placing about 250,000 families on small plots of land in furtherance of the already announced rural relief program.

Politics Is Banned In HOLC By Senate

Washington, March 19 (AP)—By a single vote, the senate decreed today that politics should be taken out of the Home Owners' Loan corporation and then passed an administration bill to guarantee the principal of the bonds issued by the corporation.

The amendment to bar politics in appointments to the corporation was adopted by a vote of 40 to 33. Then Democrats rallied their forces and after a heated debate attempted the reconsider the action. They finally lost by 35 to 34.

The bill, providing for a government guarantee of the principal as well as the interest of the $2,000,000,000 of bonds designed to refinance home mortgages, now goes to the senate. It was passed without even a record vote.

thing the farm administration has yet put into effect and was endorsed by the department of agriculture after a majority of southern farmers answering a questionnaire had asked for some such legislation.

A number of house Democrats who previously had said they would vote against the cotton bill changed their minds after Speaker Rainey had disclosed he was having compiled a list of Democrats who had voted against administration legislation. The speaker also let it be known today that Republican house members who had shown a disposition to go along with the administration would not be vigorously opposed by Democratic leaders.

Airmail Is Puzzle

The cotton bill was passed before the house put through a measure to give the Philippines until October 1 to set up a government of their own. This bill was similar in many respects to the Philippine independence bill enacted by the last congress.

Congress still was wrestling with the airmail problem, with proposals and counter-proposals being put before house and senate. Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo), said he would propose a substitute for the administration airmail bill which would put airplane carrying on the same basis with train transportation of the mails. Crail Hunter, vice president of Northwest Airways, suggested contracts be restored to private carriers temporarily until the interstate commerce commission could work out a permanent program. Meanwhile the army resumed its hauling of the airmail over a much abbreviated route.

Big Party Deficit

Prior to a vote by the house on a measure to allow surplus farm products to be sold abroad for silver which would be made the basis for silver certificates, Secretary Morgenthau disclosed that Professor James Harvey Rogers would make a trip to China to study the silver problem. At the request of President Roosevelt, Speaker Rainey deferred a vote on another silver bill calling for the purchase by the government of a billion and a half ounces of the metal.

Other developments included:

Chairman Rayburn of the house interstate commerce committee said a tentative agreement had been reached on a stock exchange control bill.

Government receipts for this portion of the fiscal year which ends July 1 were shown to be slightly above the amount collected for all of the last fiscal year.

Railway managers renewed their demand for a fifteen percent reduction in the basic wages of employes.

Attorney General Cummings told a senate committee the underworld had more men under arms than there were soldiers and sailors.

The Democratic national committee reported a deficit of $544,711 compared to a Republican committee one of $195,008.

The supreme court upheld the right of Seattle to tax a privately-owned electric plant operated in competition to the municipally-owned plant.

The senate passed a measure to forbid political appointments to the Home Owners' Loan corporation.

Washington, March 19 (AP)—The house roll call on the passage of the Dies silver bill today showed the vote of the Michigan delegation recorded as follows:

Democrats for:

Brown, Cady, Dingell, Hart, Lesinski, Musselwhite, Sadowski, and Weidman.

Republicans for:

James and Woodruff.

Republicans against:

Dondero, McLeod, Mapes, and Wolcott.

Lehr was paired for the bill.

Detective Rents His Garage, Puts Two In Hospital

Detroit, March 19. (AP)—Jack Rubin, 27, and Robert Skladnowski, 24, are recovering in Receiving hospital here tonight from wounds inflicted by police bullets, because they made the mistake of renting a garage from Detective Hyman Ulnick, 3736 Burlingame avenue.

Ulnick investigated their automobile last Saturday and said he discovered a quantity of nitroglycerine, a rifle, a sawed-off shotgun, two revolvers, and several heavy sledges and bars.

The detective and his partner, Sergt. Roy Prendergast waited for the two to return on Monday afternoon. Running out of Ulnick's basement, the officers commanded the two men to stop. They started to run, and Ulnick emptied a shotgun at Skladnowski, wounding him in the shoulder and head. Prendergast shot Rubin in the right arm.

WAGES INCREASED

Milan, Mich., March 19 (AP)—A threatened strike at the Ideal Furnace company here was reported settled today with a slight increase in wages for the employes. The dispute had been submitted to NRA officials in Washington.

STEEL WORKER KILLED

Detroit, March 19 (AP)—Fred Heiner was killed and a fellow workman, George Woodward, was slightly injured Monday when a pile of sheet metal fell into a pit at the Midland Steel Co. As employes of another firm were installing a crane.

Mysterious Note Puzzles Officials; Work Of Gunmen?

Iron Mt., (Special)—A mysterious code message found in a beer bottle along the roadside on U. S. highway 141 about a mile north of Pembine has mystified the Marinette county authorities and opinions are divided whether it was the work of an organized criminal gang or, possibly, a harmless "treasure hunt."

Finding of the message resulted in an investigation which took Deputy Sheriff J. P. Shafer, of Niagara, and Undersheriff Edward O'Hearon, of Marinette, to Pembine in an effort to make something out of the note. Aiding in the investigation also are George Peoples, of Gladstone, and John Sanglick, of Minneapolis, special agents of the Soo Line railroad, who are hoping that they may find in the message a solution to a recent series of thefts from freight car shipments.

Copy of Note

While it is impossible to place all of the message in print, the following is the approximate reading with editorial explanations in parenthesis. It was all in printing:

3/14—L. 615 P. M.

O IK

HOID DISTANCE. STOP AT FISH FRY FOR ORDERS. WATCH NEWS AND RADIO. ACT QUICK—S. No. 2, E No. 1 JOB (Arrows pointing in opposite directions) WE EAT DUCK 3-16, 6:30 P. M., SIGN CHANGE (Arrow at this point found pointing toward the figures 3-16).

The massage was found by Charles Day, a farmer. He was walking home from Pembine when he noticed a sign on the end of a culvert. It was round, as if to represent a man's face with two circles for eyes. He thought it unusual but wondered more when he saw on the inside of a culvert two arrows pointing in the same direction with another figure to represent a corner post with two braces facing upright. The writing was with chalk.

He went on home but returned later when his curiosity got the better of him. About 5 yards in the direction of the arrows Day, after searching for some time, found the beer bottle. In it was contained the coded note, which he read after breaking the bottle.

Deputy Shafer is convinced that it is a criminal gang with box car thefts as the object. Undersheriff O'Hearon doesn't know what to to think of the matter and doesn't want to overlook any possibilities. Sheriff Otto Topel, of Marinette, who didn't want to be quoted, frankly was skeptical about the whole affair, recalling his investigation of other mystery notes found in and around Marinette that turned out to be clues in treasure hunts. A checkup in the northern part of the county, however, developed no treasure hunt either in progress or planned. And the whole affair still remains a mystery.

THREE WOMEN HURT

The women were Mrs. Harry Martin, who suffered injuries of the back, her daughter, Harriet, hurt about the shoulders, and Mrs. Wendell Abbey, injured about the head.

BISHOP WILL TOUR EUROPE

Pastoral Letter Read in All Churches of Diocese

Bishop Paul Joseph Nussbaum of the Marquette diocese of Catholic churches is planning to leave soon on a tour of countries in Europe.

The bishop's farewell pastoral letter was read in every church of the diocese on Sunday. The letter was as follows:

"To the Clergy and Laity

"Dearly Beloved:

"In this year of grace we are obliged to journey to the holy city of Rome.

"The object of this journey is to venerate the tombs of the holy apostles, Sts. Peter and Paul; to reverence in the person of His Holiness Pope Pius XI, the successor Saint Peter, the bishop of bishops, the supreme ruler of the church, the common father of all the faithful; to give him an account of the state of the diocese and manifest to him our loyalty, submission and obedience.

"It will be a pleasure to us to report, and a joy to him to learn, how devoted you are to the faith, and the sacrifices you are courageously making to preserve it in yourselves and in your children, and how you are endeavoring through Catholic action to cooperate with him in restoring all things in Christ; but we will also have to make the painful admission to him, thereby grieving his paternal heart, that some of you neglected even your Easter Duty, and others contracted mixed marriages, thereby occasioning danger of dreadful leakage in the church, and still others, defying all church laws attempted marriage before civil magistrates and ministers. We deem it prudent to let you know now that if violation of church marriage law continues, a disciplinary measure once in force in the diocese against those who attempt marriage before a civil magistrate or minister, will be revived. They will not be admitted to the sacraments until they have publicly apologized in the church for the wrong they have done and repaired the scandal they have given. We shall humbly and obediently receive the holy father's counsel and admonitions on these and other matters.

"We hope and pray that those who contracted marriage in a manner which made their union invalid in the sight of God will have it rectified, and that all will make their Easter Duty this year. Should any fail to do so, their pastors must notify the chancery by the end of the month of May.

"Imagine the joy of your common father in God, Pope Pius XI, could we give him the assurance that the Holy Year which he proclaimed to commemorate the nineteen hundredth anniversary of Christ's Death and Resurrection has seen a spiritual awakening of his children in these parts; that the negligent have become diligent, the lukewarm, fervent; the indifferent, zealous; that all are striving to reestablish the reign of Christ in themselves and in society.

"It lies with you to enable us to rejoice the holy father with such glad tidings during our audience. You need but use the inspiration and graces of the Holy Year and the coming Easter Season. Through them God will renew in you His Spirit to will and to do the works of justice and charity.

"We request pastors to take up the Peter's Pence collection at all the masses on Easter Sunday and send it to the chancery within ten days after Easter. This Peter's Pence is your gift to the holy father; your token of love and affection for him. We will, according to custom, present it to him, when we make our visit to the 'threshold of the apostles,' Sts. Peter and Paul.

"Pastors will please read this letter at all the masseson Passion Sunday.

"Wishing you all a very holy and happy Easter,

"Devotedly yours in the Risen Lord,

"Paul Joseph Nussbaum,
"Bishop of Marquette.

Murals Assured For High School

Kreigh Collins, Michigan artist now living at Grand Rapids, has been engaged to paint at least two panels of a mural to be placed on the center sections of the east and west walls of the high school auditorium. Mr. Collins arrived in town Saturday and quickly caught fire with the idea of doing the work. He was in consultation with various groups of interested persons on Saturday and Sunday and returned to Grand Rapids Monday afternoon to prepare drawings of the pictures. These plans will first be submitted to the local group, then to Mr. Burroughs of the Detroit Institute of Art and finally to the department in charge of that work in Washington before the work is actually started.

The senior class voted yesterday to underwrite the cost of materials for one panel, and a group of citizens has pledged funds to pay for costs of another, thus giving assurance that the project will go ahead.

The two panels now being planned will be a part of a series of six to complete the walls of the auditorium and will tell the story of the growth of education as represented by the development of man's natural abilities. American Indians will be used for the figures ,this Mr. Collins believes, being more typical of the locality and will tell the story quite as well as though the G. H. Wells idea were carried through in detail.

The first panel will be planned to tell the story of fire, the second of weapons, the third, tools. Then will come crafts, printing and industrialism. The two which will center the sides of the room are to be crafts and tools. The making of an Indian canoe on the Tahquamenon with, perhaps, a glimpse of the falls in the background, will represent the crafts idea. The tools plan is now being worked out, the fulcrum being the central idea with an adult figure teaching a youth how to use the tool. Each panel will measure about 10 x 12.

Mr. Collins is a young man who is rapidly making a name for himself as a painter of murals. He was selected by Mr. Burroughs of Detroit to do the work in the local schools. He does not now know whether he will do the work here or in Grand Rapids. If plans can be completed to do all six panels he would like to live here the five or six months needed for the work. If he does only the two he may arrange to do the work in Grand Rapids.

One of his murals done in Grand Rapids is titled "The Lost Sheep." It is on the walls of the East Congregational church and the artist worked on it nearly a year. The mural measures 15x11.

No Jury Required For Circuit Court

Three criminal cases scheduled for hearing during the current term of Luce county circuit court have been continued, and no jury will be called for the session. James Green, charged with assault, reported that he is ready for trial, but as this was the only criminal case on the calendar it was continued along with the others to do away with the necessity of calling a jury with the resultant added cost. Mrs. Nora Wells, held for an infraction of the liquor law was released on her own recognizance when her case was continued. She had been in jail for 63 days. E. C. Underwood, former supervisor, did not appear in court when his case was called charging him with violation of the election laws. One of his bondsmen reported that Mr. Underwood was ill in a Washington hospital.

Eight divorce suits and several civil matters are on the court schedule for this week.

Movies Talk Too Much, Says Mary

New York, March 17 (AP)—Mary Pickford said today that talking picture are tiring and are like "lip rouge on the Venus de Milo."

"There is too much talking in the films today," she told the association of foreign press correspondents at a luncheon given in her honor.

"I shall weep bitterly," Miss Pickford said, "If Charlie Chaplin speaks in his next film, for I shall know that means the death of silent pictures.

"I hope my next film will be understandable without one spoken word. Speech should be used only to highlight the dramatic moments."

DENIES OLD SLAYING

Detroit (AP)—Lyle Jackson, arrested last week in Grand Rapids for a 16-year-old slaying, pleaded not guilty Saturday to a murder charge, and was remanded, without bond, to jail for examination on March 28. He is charged with slaying his friend, Jake Kooistra, in December, 1918, but claims the shooting was accidental and occurred while he and Kooistra were examining a pistol.

TWO SPEAKERS ADDRESS CLUB

Kiwanians Hear Talks on Liquor Control and Insurance

The Michigan liquor control commission is not trying to reform the people of the state, but is endeavoring to regulate the manufacture and sale of liquor in such a manner that the abuses of the old-time saloon and prohibition eras will not return, W. E. Knisel, Lansing, member of the enforcement division, declared at the regular meeting of the Kiwanis club at the Ludington hotel yesterday noon.

Mr. Knisel stated that, contrary to advance reports, he found conditions in the upper peninsula with regards to liquor law enforcement highly satisfactory, as compared to the situation in the metropolitan areas. The commission, he said, has had to cope with the activities of racketeers, who have been trying to secure a monopoly of the liquor business in the lower part of the state, and thus far has been successful in combating this objectionable element.

Lower Liquor Prices

The speaker said that those concerned with the liquor traffic must realize that if the old abuses are allowed to return the people of Michigan will again vote for prohibition. He called attention to the fact that there were only 15 positive wet counties in referendum on repeal, sentiment in the others being quite evenly divided.

Mr. Knisel and the three members of the commission, Frank A. Picard, V. L. Gormely and Dean Halford, are men whose reputation for honesty is beyond reproach. They plan to enforce the liquor law to the letter, he said. The speaker predicted that liquor prices are coming down, and that in the near future the prices for high quality spirits will range from 75 cents to $2.50 per quart.

Speaks On Insurance

W. A. Maranda, Escanaba insurance agent, also addressed the club as a part of the activities in observance of National Financial Independence Week.

"In making an investment today," said Mr. Maranda, "security is more sought after than almost any other feature. In the unwholesome atmosphere of the great bull market such was not the case. Speculative enhancement of principal was the dominant note. Security was secondary. Those proclaiming the security of life insurance were like voices crying in the wilderness. They were too conservative for an era in which everything was perpetually to be on the up and up.

"However, when the economic storm broke and increased in fury the scene changed. Millions began to appreciate the truth of the life insurance claims. When other forms of investment were depreciating and becoming less and less dependable, life insurance continued on its charted course, with amazingly few casualties, paying its obligations on the dot at par to the tune of ten millions a day, at the same time increasing the invested assets, belonging to policyholders by about four billions."

Rotary Club Hears Speech By Muyskens

Personality was called an "unexpected social product" by Prof. John Muyskens, associate professor of speech at the University of Michigan, in a most interesting address before members of the Escanaba Rotary club at the regular weekly meeting of that organization, at the Delta hotel at noon yesterday.

The subject of the address, announced by the chairman of the day who introduced the speaker, was an intriguing mystery to the club members and the manner in which Prof. Muyskens led up to the revelation that "personality" was the unexpected social product, he intended to discuss, proved one of the interesting high lights of a most entertaining half hour.

The speaker insisted that personality is a quality inherent in all humans but its development is basically the job of its owner. He spoke of the great interest and discussion recently developed by biologists and members of the medical profession in the claim that certain human glands determine behavior. He told of experiments that have been made along this line and admitted that science has made some progress in particular cases but he scoffed at the idea that human sloths could be converted into "go-getters" by other than individual development of natural talent along natural lines.

Hibernians and Auxiliary Stage St. Patrick's Celebration

Men and women of Irish descent and their families and friends, united Sunday in their annual observance of St. Patrick's Day, March 17, which occured this year on Saturday.

A religious observance in the morning at St. Patrick's church of this city and a St. Patrick's Day party sponsored by the Hibernians in the evening at the Knights of Columbus club rooms, were features of the day.

Members of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and of the Auxiliary to the Order, attended the 7:30 o'clock mass in a body at St. Patrick's church, Sunday morning, and received Holy Communion. Rev. Fr. AN ANNIVERSARY

A NEWSPAPER'S anniversary is of public importance only as the history reflected, measures the ability and the willingness of that newspaper to serve the community and the territory in which it is established. The fact that The Press today observes its silver anniversary may be a matter of pardonable pride to its publishers, but public interest, if any, is confined to the kind of a newspaper that has been developed in the 25 years covered by its history.

Publishers of The Press like to believe that in a quarter of a century The Press has become the kind of a newspaper in which the people of the territory it serves can take a considerable degree of pride, as the measure of progress recorded for that community in that period. Certainly Escanaba and this section of the peninsula has recorded a truly wonderful progress in the past 25 years and publishers of The Press like to feel that they have had some part in this development.

It is a well known axiom that an honestly published, community newspaper must keep at least a step in advance of the community it serves.

In the past twenty-five years The Press has endeavored to do just that and whether or not it has succeeded in that aim is for the people to say, for whom The Press has honestly labored to serve.

Years, as measurers of time, mean but little—it's the things we do, the monuments of service we build, that count.

PENINSULA IS FIRST

WELFARE agencies of the peninsula are to be the first in Michigan to receive full instructions concerning the new federal and state emergency relief program, that is to become effective in Michigan and the nation on April 1.

Immediately following a conference of state welfare officers with federal officials at Lansing on March 24 and 25, state officials will come to Escanaba on March 26, to meet county welfare commissions from all of the 15 upper peninsula counties and explain to them details of the relief program to become effective after March 31, when all CWA work will be suspended.

It is likely that the upper peninsula is being shown preference in the institution of the new program because of backward spring weather conditions in this section of the state and the consequently greater necessity for welfare aid after April 1.

Members of the Delta county welfare commission, as well as the commissions of all counties in the state, have received a general outline of the new federal and state plan, but actual working details will first be made public at the coming meeting in this city.

BREAKS ALL RECORDS

WHEN the second special session of the Michigan state legislature adjourned down at Lansing on Saturday morning, at least one record for all time was broken. It had been in session at the state capital more days than any previous legislative body in all the history of the state. If it could be said that the state administration's accomplishments were in full measure with the executive time spent by the senators and representatives at Lansing, it would indeed be a proud record, but there are few who will have the timerity to call it such. Aside from emergency legislation adopted, because of necessity imposed by economic conditions, the present legislature will chiefly receive the thanks of the people of the state for legislation it prevented from enactment, rather than the laws that were adopted.

From Jan. 1, 1933 to the close of the second special session, on Saturday, March 17 the present legislature had been in session for 222 days. A total of 165 days were consumed in the regular session, 31 days in the first special session and 26 days in the second special session, making a record for all future and past governing bodies of the state to shoot at.

IDEAL MUST BE MAINTAINED

SEVERAL prominent Englishmen recently united to make a public protest against the rising wave of discontent with democratic institutions.

All across Europe—from Germany, from Russia, from Italy, from Austria, and from lesser countries—comes a steadily growing chorus of derision for parliamentary government.

Democracy, it is said, is a worn out thing, and liberty is an empty word; only by an iron-clad dictatorship can a people hope to meet the problems of the modern world.

All this, naturally, is beginning to stir echoes in the British Isles; and these Englishmen, therefore, have called on their countrymen to rally in defense of the democratic ideal and to reaffirm their conviction of the supreme importance of human liberty.

Something very similar might be done profitably on this side of the water. Europe is a long way off, but this attack on the old, Anglo-Saxon concept of freedom is a menacing and contagious thing—chiefly, perhaps, because we have grown so used to the blessings of liberty that we take them for granted.

We pick up our daily paper, for instance, knowing that it will give us a full and impartial story of the news of the day, and that the editor will speak his mind freely about current issues. We go to a political meeting perfectly confident that the speaker will say precisely what he pleases.

If we don't like the actions of our mayor, our congressman, our governor, or our president, we wait our chance to vote against him at the next election—and, meanwhile, express ourselves as bitterly as we choose to anyone who will listen.

We read such books as we wish to read, attend whatever church we please, educate our children in the way that seems best to us.

We don't look on these things as privileges. They are part of our daily life. We hardly can conceive of living under circumstances where such things do not exist.

Yet we need to remember constantly that these are the very blessings of democracy which now are under attack. People fought and died that we might have these privileges, and did it so effectively that we no longer look on them as privileges.

We imbibe freedom with the very air that we breathe, but a price was paid for it, and it is our task to defend it everlastingly.

Under fascism, under communism, under any kind of dictatorship, we would lose it.

SOLDIERS' REVENGE

ANY man who served in the A. E. F. during the World War will be interested to learn of the charges which have been placed against an army medical officer in the Canal Zone, whose court martial is pending.

This officer, it is alleged, had a castor oil complex. A soldier who came in with an injured foot got a big dose of castor oil and was sent back to duty; so did another who came down with appendicitis.

As a result, charges of malpractice have been filed and the officer must appear in an army court.

The doughboys had a saying, in the A. E. F., that the army pharmacopeia contained but two nostrums—castor oil and iodine. You either got dosed with the one or swabbed down with the other, no matter what ailed you.

This, of course, was unjust to a capable and overworked medical staff. But it was an army tradition, just the same—and this Canal Zone case will stir memories of it in the minds of a lot of ex-soldiers.

The Romantic Runaway

CHAPTER XVI

A few hours later Marcia Treadway, in Havana, entered the Ritz Hotel. Here, as darkness settled on the Prado and the outline of Morro grew vague, she rubbed her face with cold cream and settled on a chaise longue to think and decide what to do next. Obviously there must be certain ways to go about finding a person but she had never considered them before and found herself fumbling. If she consulted a detective she might bring Pablito closer to the authorities than she wished. There was no doubt by now that a description of him had been broadcast widely together with the facts of his supposed crime.

She frowned, rubbed away the frown, and then closed her eyes so tightly that small wrinkles stood out around them.

At that moment Lottie, Beau and Pablito were seated at a table in a small, dingy cafe looking out on an equally dreary street. Natives of the town crowded on the narrow sidewalk outside to see the strangers who had come there to eat.

A waiter, wearing a far from immaculate apron, stood ready to take the order.

"You are ready and well ahead for the carnival tomorrow," he commented, looking at the dishevelled costumes of the three patrons. Pablito, knowing the Spanish mind, answered, "It is better to be too early than too late."

"True, Senor," the waiter agreed. "And many begin the feat this night." He decided that Pablito, despite his light hair and eyes, was a native. None but natives spoke Spanish in this way, without accent. The other two were not Cubans because Cubans do not sunburn to a rosy, inflamed purple tinge. The party was a little odd, the waiter decided, but that was God's matter. His own was inducing anyone who entered the cafe to eat more than he had planned to eat—and pay for it.

He recommended the "pollo con rizo," the fried bananas and a wine that had unusual age. Pablito ordered.

"Tell him to make it snappy," Lottie entreated, "or I'll eat the table cloth and get hydrophobia."

"It will be half an hour at the best," Pablito said. "Hurry is the one thing that does not thrive in this climate."

"What's the name of this burg?" Lottie asked then.

"Name it and you can have it," Beau told her lazily.

"Maybe we can find the name on the station," Lottie suggested since no one answered her question.

Beau responded energetically with, "My Gawd, there ain't no station! If a train run in here it would roll over on its back, sniffle twice, set to snoring and sleep forever. That's how much life there is around here. Pipe the line outside the window! Guess we're givin' 'em some excitement."

"Where we goin' from here, Beau?" Lottie leaned across the table.

"Havana," he answered. "Never hide when you're supposed to. It's always a give-away—hidin'. We're goin' to Havana and goin' to the carnival tomorrow. We'll get enough here to start. There's no danger here. I'll bet they don't get more than one newspaper a week in this town and the man who gets it is probably too sleepy to read anything except who won the lottery. Look active and alert, don't they?" he ended as he glanced toward the line outside, crowding and jostling one another in order to see the strangers better.

A gentleman who twirled his moustaches entered then and asked the trio to drink with him. Pablito thanked him and in turn asked him to drink. Then they both refused one another with many thanks and so ended that customary ceremony.

"Yau oughta be able to pick up considerable loot tomorrow, Lottie," Beau stated. She nodded. "You any good at that kind of thing?" he asked, turning to Pablito.

"I don't believe so."

"Hell, how you gon' to make a living?" Beau asked.

"I don't know," Pablito answered dully.

"I'll look out for you, honey," said Lottie quickly and warmly.

"Oh, I'll get along." Pablito assured them with more confidence in his voice than he felt. It is not easy for men in hiding to apply openly for work, he realized. And there would be Noyes, too, now of course waiting for him at the hotel in Havana. Noyes would have to be fed and housed. The problem was too big and he tried to dismiss it but found that he could not. It refused to be cast aside, as problems will refuse to be forgotten when flesh is aching from weariness and the mind is whirling from lack of sleep.

"Go slow," Beau warned the others as the food arrived. "The audience outside is likely to suspect something funny if you don't. See?"

Lottie and Pablito did see and they ate with a slowness that was proof of a commendable and unusual will power. Beau drank to "success." Pablito lifted his glass but it was with a heavy hand.

"Now call in one of those dusky rubber-necks and ask him where we can get some clothes and whether we can rent a fliver to take us to Havana." Beau ordered when they had finished their meal.

Pablito turned to single out a keen-faced boy wearing a perpetual smile in his chocolate brown eyes. "Senor," Pablito began in Spanish, "will you be so kind as to draw close? I wish to ask the questions—"

The boy entered the cafe with the lithe, graceful stride of the Latin. He accepted a tiny glass of wine of which he drank but a small part and he gave Pablito such information as they needed.

"Are you scouting the country of the new government?" the boy questioned, his eyes suddenly becoming even brghter.

"I will let you judge that, Senor," Pablito replied.

"Ah, yes! The wise man is silent," the boy said, nodding. "The wise and the good man cannot always tell what he is doing. But, Senor, we here have been oppressed by the regime, the taxes. May your hopes prosper to deliver us from oppression! And peace to you and may you walk with God!"

Then he stood up. He himself, he said, making a ceremony of a courtesy as do most Latins, he himself would escort them to the shop of Sancho who sold the apparel of value both for the senors and the senoras. He himself would awaken Sancho who slept early, and then he himself would take them to the house of Pedro who owned an automobile which in time—God being perfectly willing—would deliver them in safety in Havana, the beautiful city of laughter and gaiety. They would, no doubt, see the horse races there? And the cross-country races of motors over the uneven country ways? Every year, thus, at least one driver was killed and ofttimes many more. And they would play at the Casino? His hungry eyes glnted as he spoke. There each night from hand to hand passed enough money to care for all the aged men and women and the little children of Cuba who now (he rubbed his stomach) often went hungry.

But that was life. Those who

A WORLD MADE NEW

Who can arise to sunlit skies,
To find fair day is here again,
When shadows fade, to find re-made
The world above, the world of men,
And not forget last night's regret,
The sense of loss, the backward view,
Beholding hope on ev'ry slope,
And all around a world made new?

Who can arise when sunlight lies
Upon the plain, upon the hill,
Can see at morn a world re-born,
As he who looks about him will,
And now recall the shadows' fall,
The faded past, the ended night,
Beholding earth in all its worth
Of peace, and beauty, and delight?

Who can arise when darkness dies
To find another day is here,
Can watch the rose its heart unclose,
The world made new, and heaven near,
And not forgive, re-love, re-live,
Yes, looking on the risen sun,
Beholding day, as surely say,
"Whatever was, the night is done?"

HURJA GIVEN NEW POSITION

Will Become Assistant Chairman of Demo National Committee

BY PAUL MAY

Washington, D. C., March 19.—Emil Hurja, "stormy petrel" of the Interior Department, will take over his new job as assistant chairman of the Democratic National Committee on April 1.

Appointment of Hurja to the committee post was announced by Postmaster General Farley last week end. Hurja has for months been listed officially as administrative assistant to Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the Interior and public works administrator.

As Mr. Hurja has been associated with Mr. Farley since the pre-conventions days of 1932 and came to Washington as an assistant in patronage distribution, it is believed he will take a large part of the patronage burden from the Postmaster General and relieve him of other details of his chairmanship.

Had Row With Ickes

When Mr. Hurja was appointed to the Interior Department it was hailed widely as a victory for Mr. Farley in a persistent attempt to get his political and patronage lookouts into the various Federal departments with their heavily Republican personnel. Secretary Ickes, a progressive Republican, however, issued a prompt statement to refute this construction, making it clear that Mr. Hurja would have nothing to do with personnel matters.

Today, in announcing Mr. Hurja's appointment, Mr. Farley accompanied it with a letter written by Mr. Ickes to Mr. Hurja, in which he said:

"I am sorry to lose you from the public works administration. You have been a real help in many difficult situations, and there has never been a time when I could not rely upon you loyally and intelligently to work for the best interests of the organization of which you are a part. I understand why the Democratic National Committee should want to avail itself of your services with an important campaign approaching. I cannot stand in the way of your accepting the appointment Mr. Farley has offered you at headquarters, and I accept your resignation with regret."

Appointment Was Expected

The appointment, however, did not come as a complete surprise, for Mr. Hurja has spent much of his time in recent weeks in the National Committee headquarters, although not in an official capacity. His resignation from his present post will not be effective until April 1, at which time he will formally take charge of the Democratic headquarters. It is understood he will receive a "substantial" salary.

In some quarters it was believed the appointment of Mr. Hurja meant that Mr. Farley would not retire from the chairmanship as soon as he had been predicted recently. It is known that Mr. Farley has sought to relinquish his committee post for some time, but that President Roosevelt had been reluctant to permit him to leave until a suitable successor had been found. Thus far no indication has been given that a successor has been located.

Hurja is a former resident of Crystal Falls, Mich.

AMUSEMENTS

"Social Register" and "Hi Nellie" are the titles of the double feature program which will be shown at the Delft theatre today, tomorrow and Thursday.

"Social Register" gives Miss Moore a splendid chance to display her sense of the humorous, for though Colleen is no social registrite in the film, she makes the bluebloods blue in situations fraught with gay, uproarious comedy in an aura of romance.

Colleen, as "Patsy Shaw," a Vanities chorus girl, has incited the romantic ardor of blue-blooded Charles Breene. But haughty Mrs. Breene, Charlie's mother, steps in with some ludicrous results. It takes the family attorney to really get Patsy into a compromising situation, which almost ruins Charlie's love for her.

However, Patsy clears herself, and Charlie is convinced that though there is no royalty in the Shaw family—Patsy can give high-society a royal flush

Paul Muni, veterans of innumerable stage and screen successes comes to the Delft theatre today in his latest Warner Bros. picture, "Hi, Nellie!"

The story by Roy Chanslor, a newspaper man, deals entirely with newspaper work and newspaper characters in their contact with the outside world in the gathering of the sensational stories of the day.

Muni has the role of a managing editor who is sentenced to write the Heart Throbs column because he has displeased the publisher. The manner in which he accepts his bitter pill, after writhing under the gibes of his fellow workers, and works back into a stronger position than ever, is one of the most hilarious, as well as thrilling, dramas ever to be screened.

CCC Commander Fatally Injured In Auto Mishap

Munising—A brief telegram was the only information received here yesterday telling of the death of Captain George E. Gregory, commanding officer of the Kentucky CCC camp, who was fatally hurt in an automobile crash. The message stated that the accident occurred about 7 o'clock Friday evening, near Gaylord. Doctor Samuel Miller, of the same camp, and head of the seventh district medical corps, was injured and a third man, whose name is not known, escaped injury. It is not believed Dr. Miller is seriously hurt.

The three men left here Friday noon for Detroit, where Captain Gregory was to visit with his wife and family.

Lieutenant Leroy Morrison, who served under the captain, is acting-commander of the camp.

George Gregory was 36 years old. He arrived here last May with the original Kentucky company, 666, and served under Captain Crabile, who was commander of the camp until August. Gregory was a reserve cavalry officer.

Mrs. Gregory, with their two children, spent the summer on Lost Lake.

CLOSING HOUR TO BE 2 A. M.

Kuizel Says State Law Has Priority Over Local Ordinances

City councils and other local legislative bodies have no authority to deviate from the closing hour provision of the state liquor law, which permits sale of beer, wine and spirits until 2 a. m., according to W. E. Kuizel, member of the enforcement staff of the Michigan liquor control commission, who addressed a public meeting at the city hall last evening.

No hard liquors may be served on Sunday, consequently the serving of spirits must be discontinued on Saturday nights at midnight, Mr. Kuizel pointed out. Beer and light wines may be sold on Sunday, however. He stated that the state liquor commission is desirous of having uniform closing hours throughout Michigan.

Other Meetings Planned

Mr. Kuizel said that later on the commission would hold a series of group meetings to discuss problems in liquor control that have arisen after several months' trial of the new system.

The intent of the legislature in establishing state retail stores was to provide for home consumption, he said. Beer parlors and other public places, which permit the drinking of hard liquor on the premises and furnish the so-called set-ups, are violating the law and will be prosecuted. Mr. Kuizel said that the owners of the liquor establishment is duty bound to supervise it and is responsible for infractions of the law that occur there.

Police Are Inspectors

Police, sheriff's officers and state troopers are designated, under the law, as inspectors of the commission and are responsible for the enforcement of liquor regulations, Mr. Kuizel said. Officers neglecting this duty are also subject to prosecution. It was pointed out that they merely have to report violations to the commission, which in turn will decide whether the license of the offender should be revoked.

Public officials were urged to thoroughly examine applications for renewal of licenses so that only a good type of business man is allowed to handle liquor. Licenses are to be renewed May 1.

City councils or township boards may adopt ordinances to govern the regulation of establishments as to curtains and shades, types of booths, dancing and soforth, but are not to change closing hours, it was explained.

PRICES REDUCED

Indignation over high liquor costs has been expressed in every community in which a state store has been opened. It reached the legislature during the special session when a resolution was introduced in the senate directing Frank A. Picard, chairman of the commission, to limit profits to a 40 per cent mark-up above wholesale. This resolution, opposed by administration leaders, died in committee.

Picard has insisted the law should be interpreted to allow a 40 per cent profit on the selling price, or a mark-up of 66 per cent.

Reductions in the cost of blends follow:

American rye—Atlas, $3 a quart instead of $3.10; Shenandoah, $1.95 instead of $2.20; Snug Harbor, $1.35 instead of $1.50; Colfax, $3.85 instead of $3.90; Paul Jones, $2.55 instead of $3; Meadville, $2.75 instead of $3.60; Annapolis, $1.95 instead of $2.30; White Bay, $2 instead of $2.20.

STACK PLANS PROBE

John K. Stack, auditor general, said Saturday he will personally conduct an audit of the liquor control commission despite the fact that Chairman Frank A. Picard has submitted a report to the state treasurer showing a net profit of $651,000.

The liquor commission Friday submitted a complete report to Theodore I. Fry, state treasurer, but in an accompanying letter it was pointed out that the figures were subject to revision. The auditor general, by law, is compelled to make an audit of the commission's books at least once a year.

MIGHT REDUCE MAIL CARRIERS

Farley Is Contemplating Consolidation of Rural Routes

At least two rural mail carriers in Delta county will lose their jobs, according to postoffice department records, if Postmaster General Farley carries out his announced intention of consolidating rural routes in order to save money should congress refuse his proposal that salaries of rural carriers be slashed.

It is estimated by Farley that he can effect the same economy by abolishing one out of every four rural routes as he would were he authorized to cut salaries for the benefit or a saving of $11,000,000.

Postal records show rural routes in Delta county credited as follows: Bark River, 2; Cornell, 1; Ensign, 1; Escanaba, 1; Fayette, 1; Gladstone, 1; Rapid River, 1; Rock, 1 and Stonington, 1.

Some of those postoffices with only one route would lose that route entirely.

Farley points out that rural mail carriers are receiving an average of $2600 a year while the maximum pay allowed postoffice clerks and letter carriers is only $2100, while the latter work 44 hours a week and the former only about 33.

There are about 9500 more rural carriers in the country than the postal service actually needs at present, according to Farley, who adds that he hopes congress will permit him to cut salaries as that would enable to keep everybody on the payroll.

Here's a Line on Coiffures to Wear With Spring Hats

A flattering coiffure to wear with your Spring hat is the one pictured here, with wide waves, tiny curls, and a vertical roll at the back.

There's much talk in fashion circles about variations of the sailor and other spring bonnets that cover only one small spot on the right side of your head. So let's have a beauty talk about coiffures to wear with these little wisps of straw and felt.

Hair is shorter this season. Bobbed locks are clipped quite high on the neck and long coiffures are arranged up on the back of the head instead of in low, flat buns on the neck.

The next important consideration is curls. You're going to see more and more of them as Easter approaches. Little round flat curls vie with wide waves and combinations of both are chic.

Today we concentrate on a coiffure for shoulder-length hair which emphasizes the two important points already mentioned. The hair is parted high on the right side and the back is rolled and pinned, not straight across the back of the head but vertically from nape of neck to crown of head. The roll is soft and fastened with invisible pins.

There is one wide wave on the left side and a very small one on the right. From the wave downward on both sides the hair is arranged in tiny curls that are also pinned securely.

This is very flattering with a diminutive hat that shows practically the entire head and also very good for evening when one wears an Alice in Wonderland bandeau of tortoise shell studded with three large pearls.

St. Anne's Play 'Mary Magdalene' Powerful Sermon

A production of stirring beauty, carrying with it a lesson more powerful than any sermon, was the religious drama, "Mary Magdalene," presented by St. Anne's school Sunday afternoon and evening and again Monday evening at Escanaba Senior high school auditorium.

Audiences at all three presentations of the Passion Play sat in rapt attention mingled with reverence as the story of Mary of Magdala who abandoned wealth, luxury and ease to follow the Master, was unfolded.

Every characterization was clear cut, presented with the exactness and ease that only talent and expert direction could produce in a cast of school girls and boys.

Genevieve Thompson played the leading role of the beautiful Mary Magdalene; Betty Tousignant as Marcelle, Irene LeDuc who was Juliana, Agnes LaFleur as Faustia, and Louise Maisonneuve as Gerlinda, were the equally lovely slaves of Mary; Marguerite Osier played the part of Martha of Bethania, Mary's gentle sister; Lillian Perow, the appealing role of the widow, Benita, and Rose Mary LaCrosse, her little daughter, Miriam.

In the striking tableau in the final scene of the play, Celeste LaPorte appeared as the Blessed Virgin, Bertrand Beauchamp as St. John, the beloved disciple, Louis Larch, the Roman captain, and Albert St. Cyr, as the Voice of Christ, uttered the seven last words of the dying Saviour.

Grecian maidens who appeared in the dancing scenes of Mary's luxurious living quarters were Marie Elaine Beaudoin, graceful soloist, Blanche Peltier, the fire bearer, Lorraine Tousignant and Florence St. Cyr as incense burners, and Patricia Kidd, Verneice Servant, Lorraine LaPorte, Beatrice Maissoneuve, Lorayne Charlebois and Anita Marie Guay.

The first act showed Mary in her richly furnished home, preparing for a feast, and finally led to the Master of whom she has heard much by the little deaf and dumb child Miriam. In the second act Mary and Benita, the widowed mother of Miriam, meet and witness the miracle of the restoration of the child's speech and hearing. The third act showed Mary as a follower of Christ, and the closing tableau pictured the crucifixion, while the gentle, patient voice of the crucified Jesus were heard in his last utterances on the Cross.

Orchestra and Choir

St. Anne's orchestra under the direction of Sister Agnella, and St. Anne's choir, which is directed by Miss Jeanette Moreau, added to an important extent to the impressiveness of the production.

The orchestra played "Priests' March" from "Athalia," in an introduction to the play, and during the first act, "Benedictus," and "Hosanna," were sung by the choir. Between the first and second acts, the orchestra played "Holy City," and at the close of the second act, "The Palms." Both choir and orchestra were heard in "O Come and Mourn With Me Awhile," following the third act, and the "Stabat Mater" by both orchestra and choir, accompanied the final tableau.

Unlimited credit for the splendid production is due Sister Agnella and Sister Rosalee of the Franciscan Sisters of Christian Charity of St. Anne's school, who directed the play, to their assistants, and to the students of the school who took part in the drama.

Suffers Fractured Hip In Auto Crash Sunday At Kipling

Injured when the auto in which she was riding skidded and struck another car, Miss Elne Swenson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Swenson, 811 Dakota avenue, sustained a hip fracture that will keep her confined for some time.

The accident occurred Sunday afternoon at Kipling when Miss Swenson was returning from Manistique in an auto driven by her father and occupied by Mrs. Swenson, daughter Gladys and Grayce Norton.

According to reports, Mr. Swenson, the driver, swung his car to avoid striking an auto, said to have been parked partially on the highway, and the car skidded, the rear end striking the parked machine.

Elne, who was sitting in the rear seat, was injured and was removed to the St. Francis hospital where X-rays disclosed the fracture. Her sister, Gladys, suffered slight injuries. Others escaped without injury.

OSCODA NEXT DEBATE FOE

Argument Will Be Held in Gladstone on Friday, March 30

Oscoda high school debaters will form the next obstacle in the path to Gladstone high's drive for state honors, it was learned in a communication received here yesterday by Principal C. C. Strickland.

The argument will be staged in the local auditorium and Gladstone will have the negative side of the question, which concerns federal control of all radio stations and broadcasting.

March 30 has been set as the date for the next series of debates, but as this happins to be Good Friday it is likely that the event will be set ahead a day and be held on Thursday evening instead.

Only eight teams remain in the running for state honors. What schools, other than Gladstone and Oscoda, they are, is not yet known here.

Coach Wm. H. Bainter has not announced who members of the local trio will be, nor has the judge been selected as yet.

Scientists Should Govern Education Muyskens Declares

In the hands of capable men, not politicians, should repose the policies of education systems, Dr. John H. Muyskens, associate professor of speech at the University of Michigan, told students of the Gladstone high school in a short address yesterday afternoon at the subject, "What About Education?"

In introducing his subject, Prof. Muyskens pointed out how in China parent worship had resulted in the retardation of civilization in that country and how in Japan today nation worship has resulted in the submergence of individualism.

"What is Man that Thou art mindful of him? Thou has placed him a little lower than the angel." As one answers this question so does one train the oncoming generation, the speaker said.

The Greek answer was intellectual and gave us as the result Socrates, Plato, Aristotle, Euripides and Sapho. The Roman answer was one of conquest and resulted in Caesar conquering Europe. Lately we have had Mussolini accept the program to train the youth of the nation in the arts of war. The medieval answer, typified by the Savior in a vale of tears, is to train him for the life hereafter. The scientist answers that man is made to live and love and to enjoy himself and learning the laws of nature pushes on into era of higher civilization.

Thus today, schools seek to set up programs to meet each purpose: some to make intellectual animals; to make good workers; to make more moral citizens; to enjoy life to the full with special endowment determined by heredity.

"Don't take from the schools the right to prepare the young," Prof. Muyskens pleaded. "In a democracy our emphasis should be on the oncoming generations for theirs are the inheritances of monumental precedent and tradition."

"Thus let men—good scientists, not politicians—determine which are frills and which are thrills of education."

LARGE NUMBER HEAR MUYSKENS

New Conception of Speech Explained at Joint Club Meeting

New theories as regards language and speech were explained in a most interesting manner by Dr. John Henry Muyskens, associate professor of speech at the University of Michigan, speaking before the Child's Welfare and Rotary clubs in joint meeting last evening. The subject of the address was "Tongues of Men."

Today we are in a period of turmoil and change the speaker said, a period that has to come as there is a new era before us and debris of the old must be cleared away. Of old, superstition was rife and accepted but this gradually gave way to description and a demand for truth. This came when men started to reason and finally led to the debunking of many of the world's great figures. Many survived but all had to pass in review to see which would live.

This also was true of the growth and development of language, Muyskens stated. Formerly there was a preconception that language was given to man by God and also the presupposition that He gave man a perfect language. This belief was still rife in comparatively recent centuries, the speaker said, as was evidenced by surveys made in an effort to determine the first of "given" language in the belief that if this could be learned Paradise could be found. Research into some 980 languages and dialects had to be made and resulted in the authorship of many tedious works by supposedly learned men, "Monuments to stupidity," the speaker called them.

Then came scientists, students of language and found that language was not only of the mind but of the body. Then came the search to find how it was produced.

In 1887 a learned professor stood before an audience in an eastern seat of learning and said that speech was one or a combination of three things: a gift of God; a product of the human mind, or a biological process. At the same time in a mid-central state was born a linguist who brought to the world a new idea as to what speech is and how produced. By deductive reasoning it was proved that speech is not a gift of God, or a process of the mind, but a physiological product.

In support of this, Professor Muyskens told of work being done at his speech clinics at Ann Arbor and what constructive and remedial measures has been found beneficial in the case of speech defects. The cause of speech defects is always rooted in the body and may be due to bad eyesight, impaired hearing and other physical defects. Childhood diseases are prime causes and may cause a child to be slow in talking or to be hampered by some impediment or defect in speech. In remedying this the family physicians can be of great assistance, the speaker said.

To illustrate how effective is the new idea of speech, several specific examples of the work done at the university clinic were cited. The idea is being accepted now and will result in clinics being held in various parts of the state, the speaker stated. One of these will be held this spring at Marquette.

The gathering was held in the Legion hall, which was packed to capacity. Following the luncheon, and preceding the speaker was presented a delightful musical program. It opened with a group of vocal duets, Rose of My Heart, and Verdi's Miserere, by Mrs. Matt Gunter and Noble Swenson, accompanied by Miss Viola Foster. Mrs. Wm. H. Bainter then favored the audience with Come to My Hands With Roses, and Maiden Moon, Mrs. Boucher accompanying, and Mrs. Gunter brought the program to a close with Tosti's immortal Goodbye and Carmina.

J. A. Sturgeon, vice president of the club, presided and introduced the speaker of the evening. Mrs. G. E. Dehlin, president of the welfare club, introduced members participating in the musical program.

Local Man Charged With Stealing Axe

A charge of larceny against Floyd Larion, of this city, was made yesterday morning by Len Byers, of Hiawatha, who stated that sometime Saturday evening or Sunday morning, Larion removed an axe from his car which had been marooned in the snow on Highway M-94 in the vicinity of the "red ore" stretch of road. Larion was expected to have been arraigned on the charge yesterday afternoon before Justice W. G. Stephens.

Mr. Byers stated that he had attempted to make a trip to Munising Saturday afternoon, but turned back when it started to snow and the roads became bad. He became stalled and after trying to shovel his way out, abandoned the attempt and walked to Jack Pine lodge where he spent the evening.

Early next morning he secured his brother's car and upon arriving at the location of his car, found a deep sharp dent in his radiator and hood. The upholstery was also cut, he stated. An axe, which he had left in the car was missing.

Inquiring from some occupants of a car which had been stalled farther down the road, Mr. Byers learned that two young men in a coupe had also been stalled there that evening and that they had just left a few minutes prior.

Mr. Byers went in pursuit, caught up with the car, and found his axe inside.

M. COUSINEAU SERIOUSLY HURT

Fractures Skull as Car Hits County Plow on Lakeshore Drive

Milton Cousineau, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Cousineau, is in critical condition at the Shaw hospital as the result of an auto accident which occurred at 2 a. m. Sunday morning about 500 feet this side of the overhead grade crossing on Highway US-2 east of the city. The youth incurred a fractured skull, a broken left arm, and possible internal injuries when a small coupe he was driving crashed into a county road commission snow plow.

Mr. Cousineau and Leroy Vertz and William Generou, all of whom were riding in the Cousineau car, were picked up by a passing motorist and rushed to the Shaw hospital where they were given medical attention. Cousineau, yesterday morning was in a semi-coma state after having been unconscious throughout Sunday. He was reported as being improved and physicians in charge stated that although his condition is serious, he has a chance to survive.

The trio was coming into town as the snow plow, driven by Frank Weber, was going east. It was reported that the Cousineau car swung directly into the path of the plow, running over onto the left side of the road.

Vertz and Generou, after being treated for cuts and bruises, were dismissed from the hospital, their injuries not being of a serious nature.

The Cousineau car was damaged beyond repair, the impact taking off the top and strewing wreckage along the highway.

New York, March 19 (AP)—Declines prevailed in the financial markets today. Stocks gave up roughly one to three points and domestic corporation bonds, which late last week developed signs of easiness, were more definitely lower. Commodities also weakened.

Labor matters loomed large in the day's news and speculative quarters expressed their uncertainty as to the outcome of current differences by moderate offerings in the security markets. Stocks had a rather active dip around noon, but most of the day their decline was sluggish. Transfers totaled 1,539,060 shares.

Transfers approximate 286,000 shares.

CHICAGO GRAIN
Chicago, March 19—Misgivings about labor unrest did much to unsettle the wheat market today, and bring about lower prices.

A maximum setback of 1 3-4 cents a bushel for wheat took place, but much of this loss was overcome later owing in considerable degree to cotton market rallies that accompanied house adoption of the Bankhead cotton control bill in some quarters. Enactment of a similar measure to govern wheat production has been forecast.

Wheat closed nervous, ¾ to 5-8 under Saturday's finish; corn unchanged to ¼ lower, oats 1-8 to ¼ down, and provisions varying from 20 cents decline to an advance of 2 cents.

Liquidating sales on the part of holders of futures dominated the wheat pit most of the day, with stop-loss orders forced into execution at times. The tendency to let go of wheat holdings received much of its impetus from downturns of stocks silver and cotton. Most of all, however, attention of wheat traders focused on uncertainties regarding a threatened big strike affecting the automobile industry.

Corn and oats took their cue mainly from wheat action. Rural offerings of corn to arrive here were light.

Despite hog market upturns, provisions reflected weakness of cereals.

BY VICTOR EUBANK
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, March 19 (AP)—The threatening labor situation apparently brought further profit taking in the bond market today and prices of the more active issues were the heaviest in several weeks.

While the trading volume was not large, transfers totaling only $14,065,000, par value, the average for 60 domestic corporate loans declined four-tenths of a point.

Domestic rail liens generally were under pressure. Among the more active losers of 1 to 2 or more points were some issues of Alleghany Corp., Baltimore & Ohio, Canadian Pacific, Chesapeake Corp., St. Paul, Chicago & North Western, Denver & Rio Grande, Erie, Missouri Pacific, Northern Pacific, Southern Pacific and Southern. Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Norfolk & Western and Chesapeake & Ohio were moderately lower.

Some resistance was shown by scattered utilities and industrials, but declines of 1 to around 2 points were recorded by loans of American I. G. Chemical, American Rolling Mill, American Telephone, American Water Works, Columbia Gas, Goodrich, International Telephone, McKesson, Paramount, Postal Telegraph and Warner Bros.

Iron Prospects Looking Better In This Region

Steel makers anticipate steady improvement in demand throughout the first half of the year, according to the March issue of a leading iron and steel trades publication. The result is likely to be reflected in larger movements of Lake Superior iron ore. The only prospective drawback is the possibility of strikes in the automobile industry.

One of the leading mining publications estimated in January that 30,000,000 tons of Lake Superior ore would probably go down the Great Lakes this year. In the March issue the prediction was revised to 40,000,000 tons, which accords with the one made weeks ago by William G. Mather, chairman of the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company, that 1934 shipments would approximate the latter figure.

American steel output has made further advances in the last 30 days to 51 per cent of capacity, an increase of three points. Pig iron and scrap iron prices made good rises in the same period. Daily average output of steel ingots was 92,696 tons, the highest since last August. The total production was 30 per cent more than that of January, and the aggregate for the first two months of the year was nearly double that of the same period in 1933.

In fairly normal years about 45,000,000 tons of iron ore are shipped from the Lake Superior region to lower lake ports. Communities on the three Michigan iron ranges are anticipating the best year since 1930.

had little had continually less and those who had much had continually more. God, no doubt, saw reason for this. The wine had been enjoyable. The youth bowed low with his gratitude.

Sancho outfitted Lottie, Pablito and Beau in a way which made them look like Cubans from one of the little villages—a bit bulky where they should have been slender and a bit pinched where there should have been room.

Beau turned before a pock-marked mirror to groan aloud. He had earned his particularity about his attire. Now he saw violently brown shoulders so padded as to suggest pin cushions, a wasp-waisted coat and a green and tan checked waistcoat. His shoes were a violent tan, such being the only shoes of Sancho's stock. Pablito chose a suit of an amazing blue. Sancho and the boy guide who had been found at the cafe were entranced. Lotttie was less awkward than the men in her ill-cut country things. She looked a bewildered and rather sweet child of the provinces and younger than she had looked in many hard years.

"No one now would know you," whispered the self-appointed guide to Pablito as he considered Pablito's answer to his question about the matters of government. "You are changed, utterly changed! But God will know you and guard you!"

Pablito doubted this, but he gripped the other's hand frmly as he said goodby and he began the new journey with a little warmth at his heart. Ten minutes later they were on the way to Havana.

Augusta, Ga., March 19 (AP)—The putting stroke that made him the most feared golfer in the world has Bobby Jones worried on the eve of his return to competition.

Thursday he re-enters tournament play in the Masters' invitation event here, and today, after almost a week of practice over the Augusta National Golf Club course, he was frankly apprehensive about his putting.

Bring the Birdies

"I'm not putting well now," he said. "To score in a tournament you must be able to get down an occasional long putt and I've been unable to do this with any consistency. I can drop the short ones but mostly it is the putts of twenty feet or further that bring the birdies."

The course here, while a good test of golf, is not unusually difficult, Bobby explained, and he figures the man who can hole his putts over these rolling greens is the one who will win.

"A good successful putting touch bring confidence," said Bobby, who will use a putter modeled after his famous "Calamity Jane" of other years.

"I believe I am hitting my wood shots and my long irons as well as in my former competitive years, perhaps better, but my putting is off.

"The putting touch is the hardest part of golf to keep consistently good and, if you haven't been playing a good deal, it is sometimes difficult to pick up the touch."

Wants To Win

Is he as keen as ever to win, he was asked.

"Yes, I want to win every tournament in which I play. The odds are great here against an individual's winning but I naturally am going to play my best and hope it will be good enough. I'll try to put four good rounds together and let it get me where it will."

Bobby declined to express an opinion as to his own chances to win but did say that if he regains his putting touch and putts as well as he did in other tournaments of past years he believes the possibility of his leading the field is as good as in former competitions.

Jones also refused to single out any particular players as his chief rivals here. Although he thinks there are more good players now than in other days he doesn't regard the scoring as any faster, disagreeing in this opinion with Horton Smith and Paul Runyan, among other professionals.

In his concentration and competitive temperament as sound as before?

"Of course, I can't say definitely about that until I have played. However, I believe I can concentrate now as well as before," he replied.

Bobby thinks that the winning score here will be in the low 280's if good weather prevails.

Joe Anderson Wins Scrap At Marinette

Joe Anderson, Gladstone middleweight, decisively defeated John Simo of Sheboygan in a three round match at Marinette last night. Anderson won every round and piled up a heavy margin of points over his Wisconsin foe.

Anderson will be on a card at Escanaba on March 31, meeting Sailor Tommy Burns of Kimberly, Wis. The boxing show here was originally scheduled for March 27 but was postponed until Saturday so not to interfere with Holy Week activities.

Metcalfe Competes In Canadian Games

Milwaukee, Wis., March 19. (AP)—Having recovered from a leg injury he received in training last week, Capt. Ralph Metcalfe, of the Marquette University track team, world's fastest human, will leave tomorrow for Hamilton, Ont., where he will compete in the 91st Highlanders' games Wednesday night. Coach Conrad M. Jennings announced tonight that the sprint star would be entered in the 60 yard event and that Marquette's mile relay team of Jesel, Kubash, Kleist and Beckett also would compete.

WRESTLING

Detroit, March 19. (AP)—George Dusette of Boston, 175, threw Steve Passas of New York, 174, with a body scissors in one hour, five minutes and 30 seconds here tonight in the main event of a wrestling card.

The Great Mephisto of Europe, 176, threw Jose Firpo, 173, in 8 minutes and 45 seconds.

Jackie Nichols of Tampa, Fla., 155, and Dick Costello, of Boston, 158, ended —their match in 30 minutes with a no fall draw.

Hans Bauer, Milwaukee, 162, threw Paddie Mack, Columbus, O., 160, in 16 minutes and 10 seconds

"Sez Me" by Ken Gunderman

It was revealed last week that Ironwood actually did not make a direct request for a playoff game with Crystal Falls for the district basketball championship but merely followed up a suggestion from C. E. Forsythe, director of the state high school athletic association, that the problem could be placed before the upper peninsula committee and that the state association would ratify any action the peninsula committee would take. The peninsula committee turned thumbs down on the proposal.

—o—

The latest development in the case, of course, vindicates Ironwood's action because, as the suggestion came from the state association, it was what any other school would have done under similar conditions. A direct request by Ironwood would have been brazen but an invitation to apply for a playoff game coming from the state association makes the Ironwood action reasonable and understandable.

According to Escanaba basketball fans who saw the Eskymos play Ishpeming in the tournament at Marquette, the local basketeers displayed plenty of grit against an admittedly superior opponent. The Eskymos will have virtually the same lineup to offer next year, with only Frederickson from the first team graduating in June. Chase, a sophomore, has been groomed for that job. From the reserve list, Alprovitz is about the only man who has not at least another year of competition ahead.

—o—

The all opponents' team selected by Marquette university cagers at the close of the season included Voegele, Notre Dame, and Buysse, Michigan State, forwards; Krause, Notre Dame, center and captain; Poser, Wisconsin, and Beitner, Ohio State, guards. Buysse of Michigan State is actually a center but although he hardly measured up to Krause of Notre Dame, the Hilltoppers rated him highly enough to give him a berth on the first five as a forward.

—o—

The rumor is making the rounds in Wisconsin again that Marinette is going to be asked to withdraw from the Fox River valley conference because of its poor showing in the conference athletic engagements. Marinette rates a poor last in the all-time record of the Fox River valley conference in basketball. Lars Thune who took over the athletic reins at Marinette at the beginning of this school year, maintains the rumors actually originate from the newspapers and that no mention or suggestion has ever come directly from conference officials.

Diesel Tug Result of Race

Launching of the Diesel electric tug Lectro, in Leith, Scotland, by the Marchioness of Linlithgow, recently, is hailed as a victory for four large British concerns in a race to develop such a vessel. Because of the importance of Diesel-electric propulsion of ships the four firms combined to perfect the tug. The Lectro is virtually a floating power station, and will be the most powerful tug of her size on the Thames. Two Diesel engines, each of 360 horsepower, are employed to drive the two main generators, supplying current to the propelling motor, which is of 580 horsepower, while two smaller generators provide current for the electric steering gear, lighting, and other auxiliary services. Dual bridge telegraphs directly control and operate the engines, and by eliminating the time lag in the engine room permit of finer maneuvering.

Amateur vs. Pro Wrestling Match Sought By Coach

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 19. (AP)—An exponent of amateur wrestling, and an exponent of professional wrestling, may meet on the mat very shortly to decide the relative merits of the sport as viewed from the campus and the box office.

Clifford Keene, University of Michigan mat coach, thinks he can throw Nick Londes, Detroit wrestling promoter, "the best day that Nick ever saw."

Even though Harry Kipke, Michigan's football coach, is against the idea of the match, Keene thinks it ought to be done for two reasons: to show up the pro wrestling game as it compares with the amateur game, and—here's the catch—to get a little ballyhoo for the national intercollegiate wrestling matches scheduled for Ann Arbor in a few days.

Londes hurled a challenge at Keene after the coach delivered himself of the following comment about pro wrestling:

"Professional wrestling is a hippodrome burlesque. The amateurs could win 90 per cent of the matches with the pros, providing the pros wrestle the way they do at Olympia in Detroit and other places. It isn't wrestling. It's an act."

Doings In New York

By PAUL HARRISON

New York—The Lenten season means "calamai" to the Catholics of the Greek-Armenian-Arabian-Turkish quarter in lower Manhattan. And "calamai" means octopus.

Greek Catholics must abstain from meat and ordinary fish during Lent, but it happens that octopus is far from being ordinary fish. It has the consistency of, and tastes like, stewed rubber hose. However, it still is considered a great delicacy, as proven by the fact that Arabs and Turks eat it and don't have to. Most of the little groceries and delicatessens in the district import their devilfish from the Mediterranean, or from the south, and dry, salt and store them in back rooms far in advance of orders. An octopus improves with age, and finally is delivered to a customer with its tentacles neatly twined around a wooden frame . . .

Another favored use of calamai is as a morning-after pick-me-up. More steadying than tomato juice, say the octopus eaters.

Shark-eating Men

Shark also is an excellent Lenten food, if you ask the people down in the Spanish, Sicilian and Portuguese quarter on the lower East Side. Chinese and Japanese appreciate it too.

Tiger sharks, hammerhead sharks, any kind of sharks, sometimes weighing up to 800 pounds. Also dogfish—things most people refuse to eat. The tail of a dogfish is the best part, and shark fans are very tasty. Shark steaks by any other name are relished in many restaurants all over town. Usually they're sold as "swordfish."

Humming Successes

"Send the customers out humming," said a musical comedy producer whose identity has been lost in Broadway antiquity, "and you've got a hit."

It's still a swell adage, and true enough to confound all the critics who predicted a few months ago that the musical show, "Roberta," wouldn't last long. For they didn't figure on the haunting power of Jerome Kern's tune called "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes." That one number has served to keep "Roberta" on the public's mind—and the public at the box office. It's what the Pilgrims' Chorus was to "Tannhauser," "The Last Rose of Summer" to "Martha," and the title waltz to "The Merry Widow."

Maybe you can recall some others. Rudolph Friml's "Indian Love Call" had a lot to do with the success of "Rose Marie." And certainly nobody remembers much about "Mlle. Modiste" except that "Kiss Me Again" was its theme song. Mr. Ziegfeld's famous "Sally" was immortalized by the song called "Look for the Silver Lining." "The Prince of Pilsen" had several great numbers, but one that never will be forgotten was the first stein song, "Old Heidelberg." "Because You're You" was the hit of "The Red Mill," and "My Hero," from "The Chocolate Soldier," will be sung as long as there are sopranos.

This could go on forever, but maybe there's space for a few more recent examples. Jerome Kern sent the customers out humming "The Song Is You" when they'd seen "Music in the Air." Nobody can guess how many thousands attended "The Cat and the Fiddle" because they liked the tune titled "The Night Was Made for Love." "Night and Day," sung by millions, prolonged "Gay Divorce" into a smash hit. "Hit the Deck" was dependent largely for its popularity on "Hallelujah." The first production of "Blackbirds" was anything but a hit for the first month or more. Suddenly Broadway began whistling "I Can't Give You Anything But Love, Baby"—and the box-office attendant was awakened by the rustle of greenbacks.

In Camp With Big Leaguers

SOX GET AXE

Pasadena, Calif., March 19 (AP)—The axe fell in the Chicago White Sox camp today for the first ime of the season, catching a pair of recruit pitchers, Dale Mills and John Huck.

Mills was returned to Topeka of the Western league, and Huck, picked up as a free agent, was sent to Galveston of the Texas league. Manager Lew Fonseca had the squad out for two drills today trying to eradicate faults which helped the Sox to lose two games to the Cubs over the weekend.

MAY GO TO CUBA

Tampa, Fla., March 19 (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds may do their spring training in Havana, Cuba, next year.

General Manager Larry MacPhail so expressed himself today after rain prevented an exhibition game with the Boston Braves at St. Petersburg.

Derringer, Benton and Blake have been selected for mound duty in a game with Columbus of the American Association tomorrow.

TIGERS NOT SO HOT

Lakeland, Fla., March 19. (AP) After watching his club take a 7 to 5 licking from Boston, Sunday, Manager Cochrane decided today that if the Detroit Tigers were going to be pennant contenders, they would have to show some speedy improvement.

Pitching was the chief fault in Sunday's exhibition. Cochrane used Frasier, Hogsett, and Auker and they gave the Red Sox nine hits.

The fielding was not any too good. Shiver in left field missed two flies and fumbled a grounder, and the Tigers had their usual trouble trying to run down men between the bases. Cochrane will bear down during the next two days getting ready for the game with the Athletics.

CHAMPS TO GOOD

Biloxi, Miss., March 19 (AP)—The veterans who pitched Washington to a championship last year are in such fine shape they're going to have to slow down.

Earl Whitehill, Walter Stewart, Al Crowder, Monte Weaver and Jack Russell are rounding into the pink so fast that Joe Cronin is confident his club will get away with a rush in the 1934 campaign. Al Thomas and Bob Burke are showing better than usual. Some of the rookies likewise are coming fast but Ed Chapman, big right-hander from the Rochester club, is having trouble with a stitch in his back. If it doesn't disappear Chapman is likely to be missing when the Senators cut down to legal size.

YANKS USE STICK

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 19 (AP)—A one-day lull in their series with the Boston Braves gave the New Jersey Yankees a chance to tune up their batting eyes in a long hitting drill today.

HARRIS GLOATS

Sarasota, Fla., March 19 (AP)—There were plenty of sore muscles in the Boston Red Sox camp today, the result of yesterday's exhibition victory over the Detroit Tigers, and Manager "Bucky" Harris, still gloating over his new team's initial success, was in a kindly mood.

He put his players through a brief workout.

CUBS BEAT BEAVERS

Ventura, Calif., March 19 (AP)—Chicago's Cubs continued their raid on the Coast league today by handing the Portland Beavers a 7 to 3 lacing before an overflow crowd here today.

Lanky Ed Bryan, Beaver pitcher, was nicked for 17 hits in going the whole distance while the combined efforts of Rookie Conrad and the veteran Root held the northerners to 10 hits.

Kiki Cuyler and Pitcher Bryan each collected a trio of safeties for perfect batting averages for the day. Bryan walked twice while Cuyler worked only four innings.

Stanley Hack, who replaced Jurges at short, connected for a home run.

Reds Rob Cradle To Sign Hurler Only 18 Years Old

By NEA Service

Kenosha, Wis. — Two years ago Stanley Zalubowski was just a sandlot pitcher. Today the 18-year-old youngster holds a contract with the Cincinnati Reds that calls for his appearance at the Tampa, Fla., training camp with the rest of Bob O'Farrell's boys.

Zalubowski

Stanley is the first youngster to be signed by the Reds' manager. He was the sensation of the Lake Shore League while playing for the local club last season.

BOXING

BEATS PERLICK

Bethlehem, Pa., March 19. (AP)—Danny Devlin, Allentown, punched out a six round decision over Herman Perlick, of Kalamazoo, Mich., in the windup bout of a boxing show tonight. Devlin weighed 148; Perlick 143.

Devlin floored Perlick for no count in the fourth round with a hard right to the chin.

FLASH GETS BOOS

Holyoke, Mass., March 19. (AP)—Lou Amber, Herkimer, N. Y., defeated Johnny Jadick, Philadelphia, in the Valley Arena's 10-round feature bout here tonight. Amber came in at 133 1-2 to 138 for Jadick. A lusty boo greeted the decision in favor of the New York state flash.

AT MIAMI, FLA.

Miami, Fla., March 19. (AP)—Johnny Farr, 131, of Cleveland, won the decision of two judges and the referee here tonight after his 10-round fight with Eddie Shea, 129, of Chicago. Both finished with slightly cut eyes and bleeding badly from the mouth.

Featherweight King Laces Mose Butch

Pittsburgh, March 19. (AP)—Freddie Miller of Cincinnati, recognized as featherweight champion by the National Boxing association, tonight handed a stiff lacing to Mose Butch of Pittsburgh in a ten-round fight. The title was not at stake.

The champion took nine of the ten rounds and his greater experience was too much for the Pittsburgh boy throughout the battle. The decision in Miller's favor was unanimous.

Both escaped serious punishment, although Butch's face showed signs of puffiness as a result of the Cincinnati fighter's insistent right jab. The winner weighed 127; Butch 127 3-4.

In one of the preliminaries Charley Burns, 131, Pittsburgh, outpointed Harry Weekly, 131, Alliance, O., in eight rounds.

RAILWAY MAKES PROFIT

Detroit (AP)—Fred A. Nolan, acting general manager for the Detroit street railways, said the system showed a clear profit of more than $40,000 during February compared with $24,763 in the same month in 1933.

Dodgers pitching ace, for five hits and four runs in the fifth inning today to defeat the Brooklyn Nationals 7 to 4 in an exhibition game at Flamingo Park before 1,200 spectators.

After each side scored a run in the first inning, the Giants took command of the game in the fifth largely as the result of a lusty triple off the bat of Pitcher Joe Bowman, who relieved the Giants' starting pitcher, Hal Schumacher, in the fourth. Bowman's blow scored Vergez and Healey. In the fifth inning Bowman hit a double.

GAME WASHED OUT

Fort Myers, Fla., March 19 (AP)—What began as a high scoring contest between the Philadelphia Athletics and the St. Louis Cardinals was washed out in the fourth inning today when the "bottom fell out of the clouds" over the A's training camp.

At the time the count was 3 to 2 in favor of the Cards, and the mid-westerners had the bases all filled when the downpour began.

Nothing Much New, But Braves Keep on Going

BY ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

St. Petersburgh, Fla., March 19. (AP)—Like Old Man River, the Boston Braves haven't much that's new to offer for this year's National league jamboree but they expect to keep on rollin' along.

The superstition persists that Walter Maranville was once a drummer boy in the Civil War but the Rabbit insists he is only approaching 42 and remains the life of the party. The diminutive pepper-box declares he is as durable as ever and defies anyone, including the 23-year-old stripling, Dick Gyselman, to take his job away from him. The fact is that Maranville will start his 23rd big league season as the regular second baseman of the Braves.

"We are shy of infield reserves, otherwise," says Bill McKechnie, shrewd pilot of the Braves, "but we have at least as good a ball club as the one that was in the pennant hunt right up until the first of September last year and several good reasons for showing improvement.

"In the first place, we will have players like Hal Lee and Pinky Whitney, whom we got in mid-season from the Phillies, to start off with this spring. We will get more punch, with the aid of the lively ball and if Frank Hogan, our heavyweight backstop, gets rid of excess poundage.

"The pitching staff, which had most to do with keeping us in the race, figures to be even stronger with a comeback by young Bob Brown, the righthander who was a sensation in 1932 but did not pitch a game last season because of a bad shoulder. They tell me Brown suffered from 'bursitis'—whatever that is—but we are working him slowly and hope he will come through."

McKechnie and Emil Fuchs, president of the Braves, dickered for both Dick Bartell, ace shortstop of the Phillies, and Tony Cuccinello, second baseman of the Dodgers, during the winter but the club will have to be content, for the time being, with an infield consisting of Baxter Jordan at first, Maranville on second, Bill Urbanski at short and the reliable Whitney on third. Gyselman is the only experienced understudy but at least one of the rookies, 18-year-old Elbert Fletcher of Milton, Mass., is labelled a coming sensation as a slugging first sacker—something the Braves sorely need.

Walter Berger, the cleanup clouter, has finally come to terms, at a substantial increase in salary, and McKechnie looks for his all-star centerfielder to have a great batting year. He led the club with .313 last season and has the happy faculty of inserting home runs when they mean the ball game.

Hal Lee has the left field assignment, Randy Moore, who hit .302 last season, has the call in right but may alternate with Bob Worthington, righthanded batsman, who is due for a comeback after a nervous breakdown in 1933. Rupert Thompson, a .360 hitter with the Albany Internationals, appears to have the edge over Joe Mowry, expensive Minneapolis recruit, for the other reserve job.

McKechnie's pitching "big four," Ben Cantwell, Walter Betts, Fred Frankhouse and Ed Brandt, contributed a total of 65 victories to the Braves' climb into the first division last year. Cantwell topped them all with 20 wins, the high mark of his big league career. If they can do only approximately as well again, the club will be dangerous at every stage of the race, and a decided pennant factor if Brown shows winning form again. The mop-up squad includes Bob Smith, Tom Zachery, Leo Mangum and Steve Swetonic obtained from the Pirates. Ray Starr, who has been with the Cardinals and Giants, is slated for the Minors again.

Al Spohrer, who compares with Hogan the way Tommy Loughran did with Primo Carnera, will alternate with his 250-pound teammate in the backstopping department.

McKechnie regards the world champion Giants as the club for them all to try and beat this year. Wilkinsburg Will declines to "pop off" on what the Braves will do but from the sidelines it appears the Boston team, aside from the lack of infield reserves and sustained batting punch, nevertheless possesses the pep and pitching to go places this season.

New Jersey Star Captures Women's Medal With A 79

Pinehurst, N. C., March 19 (AP)—Charlotte Glutting of South Orange, N. J., captured the medal with a 79 today as a field of 74 batled over the No. 3 course here in qualifying play for the 32nd annual women's North and South golf championship.

Playing the same crack golf that carried her to the semi-finals of the women's national last summer, the New Jersey star might have tied or beaten the women's course record of 75 here except for a bad turn in the weather.

She played the first nine holes in a sizzling 36, but high winds sprang up and, fighting them on the back nine, she then took a 43.

The course record was set by Maureen Orcutt, Englewood, N. J., who was winner of the North and South the last three years, but she decided not to defend her title this year.

Edith Quier, of Reading Pa., finished second to Miss Glutting with an 80, while two strokes back was Jane Brooks of Nyack, N. Y., Aniela Gorczyca of Fort Worth, exas, the southern champion, shot an 87.

Miss Glutting will play Mrs. Karl Scheidt, of Pittsburgh, who qualified with an 89, in tomorrow's first round matches and Miss Quier will meet Deborah Verry, of Worcester, Mass., who had a 91 today.

The other first-round matches with qualifying scores of each player:

Mrs. R. H. Barlow of Bryn Mawr, Pa., 92, vs. Mrs. Marvin Hanes of Washington, 89.

Anelia Gorczyca of Fort Worth, Texas, 84, vs. Mrs. A. W. Hoopes, of Kennet Square, Pa., 92.

Helen Waring, Pinehurst, 86, vs. Mrs. N. K. Garber, Pittsburgh, 92.

Jean Bauer, Providence, R. I., 85, vs. Mrs. J. J. Lawlow, New York, 82.

Mrs. Sara Fownes Wadsworth of Pittsburgh, 91, vs. Marion Miley of Lexington, Ky., 89.

New York Rangers After Stanley Cup

Montreal, March 19. (AP)—With the retention of the Stanley Cup as their objective, the New York Rangers, who could finish no better than third in the American division of the National hockey league this year, tomorrow will open the league play-offs here against the powerful Montreal Maroons, winner of third place in the International section.

Total goals in the two games, the second of which will be played in New York Sunday, will determine the team that will remain in the battle for the coveted trophy the Rangers carried home from Toronto last spring.

OHIOAN ROLLS SCORE OF 705

Doubles Mark of 1303 Still Stands at Peoria Meet

Peoria, Ill., March 19 (AP)—A new leader was established in the individual events at today's session of the 34th annual American Bowling Congress tournament.

Glenn Evans, Canton, Ohio, took top honors. Bowling on the same alleys on which Fred Weber, Milwaukee all events leader, rolled a 298 game, Evans batted out games of 265, 234 and 206 for a total of 705 pins.

In the last frame the Ohioan blew the seven pin. Otherwise he might have set a figure that would remain untouched for the rest of the congress sessions.

The bowlers found the doubles total a hard one to crack, the nearest approach to the 1303 rolled yesterday by Lee Foster and Lou Dumar of Highland Park, Mich., was 1249 sticks collected by Joe Jerman and Joe "Curley" Motika, Cleveland. It was good for second place.

Two other teams crashed among the first ten. Frank Kaminski and Al Kowalski, Chicago, booted 1218 and tied for seventh place while R. Frieder and R. Uek of Manitowoc, Wis., grabbed Nintt Rankin the standings with 1217.

The day brought no other doubles above 1200 but there were more than two dozen over the 1100 mark.

NEEDY FARMERS RECEIVE WHEAT

Ten Carloads Apportioned in Delta County For Livestock Feed

Ten carloads of feed wheat have been distributed to needy farmers throughout Delta county during the past week, the Delta county welfare relief commission announced today.

NO HAY PURCHASED

The Federal Emergency Relief commission is not purchasing any hay for distribution to needy farmers according to the local welfare commission announcement today.

Many local farmers have the mistaken impression that the government is furnishing hay in connection with the free feed wheat. The commission explains that hay is not a basic commodity and, there being a shortage already, government purchase of hay would further increase the cost of hay.

The wheat was shipped here through the Federal Surplus Relief Corporation and the Farmers National Grain Corporation of Minneapolis. Each car contained approximately 65,000 pounds of wheat and was distributed to farmers who were in need of fodder because of their shortage of grain. The wheat was distributed on a basis of almost a bushel per head of cattle and each farmer was required to sign a work agreement of two hours per bushel of wheat received.

Two cars shipped to Escanaba served Wells and Escanaba townships, while one car each at Bark River and Ford River served those two townships. One car each at Rapid River and Beaver were distributed to Masonville, Brampton and Baldwin townships while a car at Cornell took care of Cornell and part of Escanaba townships. Cars at Ensign, Nahma and Rock were distributed to Ensign, Nahma, Garden, Fairbanks and Maple Ridge townships, respectively. Besides these cars received for Delta county, one car was spotted at Rock for Marquette county, which was distributed to Ewing, Wells and Turin townships.

The applications for wheat were acted upon by the supervisors of each township and a committee of responsible farmers in each township. These farmers served on the committee gratuitous and the welfare commission expressed its appreciation of the services they rendered. Following is a list of the members on each of the committees:

CAPT. STRAHAN IS APPOINTED

Escanaba Man Engaged to Take Charge of Ferry Boat

Capt. L. F. Strahan, Escanaba, veteran Great Lakes skipper, has been appointed first officer under Capt. E. H. Doner, superintendent of state ferries, at the Straits of Mackinac. He will take charge of a boat in the spring.

Capt. Strahan was in charge of the I. Stephenson company's lumber barges for several years, and last season was skipper of the Str. Christie, which went aground with a cargo of pulpwood in Lake Michigan near Petoskey last fall.

The state ferry service employs 87 men on the boats and at the docks at Mackinaw City and St. Ignace. According to Supt. Doner, an attempt will be made to begin service at the Straits about April 15.

A single boat will take care of the traffic until May 16, when another boat will be added. The two boats will operate until July 1. In order to accomodate the tourist traffic a third boat will be started to give 24-hour service.

Last year the state ferries transported across the Straits 108,000 vehicles and 278,000 passengers.

BPW BANQUET REAL SUCCESS

Cheney Main Speaker at Public Relations Dinner

The public relations dinner of the Escanaba Business and Professional Women's club held last evening at the Ludington hotel was one of the most successful functions undertaken by the local club.

The speaker of the evening was R. E. Cheney who gave an interesting address, "Confidence", which held the attention of his audience intensely throughout.

"The whole success of our economic organization depends upon confidence," Mr. Cheney said. "Our whole industrial organization must be built around confidence in the other individual."

Mr. Cheney stated that the depression has cut down the production in order to take care of the decrease in demand. We finally reached the bottom and now are on the way up again, adding that there has been a decided turn in the attitudes of mind in the industrial sections of Michigan.

Impromptu talks were made by Mrs. Arthur Peterson, Harold P. Lindsay, Charles Gessner and A. J. Young.

Mrs. Peterson represented the Escanaba Women's club and the Parent-Teachers association, as well as the B. & P. W. club, in her talk.

Mr. Lindsay stated that clubs play a very important part in our community life, and that even during the depression organizations did not fall by the wayside, but are finding new members, filling new niches and carrying on broader programs.

Mr. Gessner asserted that today more than ever it is necessary that people think in terms of the group and not in terms of the individual. He said that democracy is a gift that few people have left but that organizations like the B. & P. W. club will assure it for this country.

Mr. Young pointed out that statistics reveal that business women now are in every field of business, every vocation and every profession.

Greetings from the upper peninsula district and from the state federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs were given by Mrs. Mildred Feldhausen Ruggles of Munising, chairman of this district.

NEW POWERS PROPOSED TO CRUSH CRIME

gouge out his eye."

One of the bills proposed, a consolidation of several bearing on the subject, is aimed directly at racketeering whose returns, Cummings said, ran into "millions upon millions." It would define such offenses as violations of the constitution's interstate commerce clause and would make them felonies where they are "accompanied by extortion, violence, coercion or intimidation."

The attorney general said that heretofore "the nearest approach to federal prosecution of racketeers as such has been under the Sherman anti-trust act" and that it was ineffective.

This measure also would extend the provisions of the federal law against transporting stolen automobiles from one state to another and would make it a federal offense to transport virtually anything of value that has been stolen.

Senator Robinson (R-Ind) asked Cummings whether the proposed legislation would give the power necessary to "stop John Dillinger who has ignored state boundaries and who is now reported to have flouted an international boundary by going into Canada."

"Yes," Cummings replied. "We have a bill now before the committee which makes it a criminal offense for law breakers to pass from one state to another to avoid prosecution."

TOO ROUGH AT U. M.?

Ann Arbor (AP)—B. B. Kelley, president of University of Michigan Interfraternity Council, said Saturday that an investigation will be made next Tuesday into charges that three fraternities were "too rough with their freshmen pledges" during the recent initiation week.

Why Liquid Laxatives are Back in Favor

The public is fast returning to the use of liquid laxatives. People have learned that the right dose of a properly prepared liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement without any discomfort at the time, or after.

The dose of a liquid laxative can be varied to suit the needs of the individual. The action can thus be regulated. A child is easily given the right dose. And mild liquid laxatives do not irritate the kidneys.

Doctors are generally agreed that senna is a natural laxative. It does not drain the system like the cathartics that leave you so thirsty. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a liquid laxative which relies on senna for its laxative action. It gently helps the average person's bowels back to regularity.

You can always get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drug store, ready for use. Member N. R. A.
